Jessica

It's surprising how close we've become in the past couple of weeks! Of course getting caught together brought us closer. Tom can act like such a jerk at times. Luckily you're about done with him - unless you row summer crew. Crew season was pretty good, I guess. ~~This~~ ~~sentence~~ sorry. We had a great time at Nationals - of course. Too bad your boat didn't do better but you all looked great. I'm (sorry the pen ran dry) looking forward to this summer and becoming better friends with you. Me, you, Helen, Susan and Pam have had some really great times. Remember, me and Susan watching that dumb model movie while Todd, Helen, Pam and Rudy were upstairs? I still can't figure out what Todd and Helen were doing in the bathroom! Going to your house during school was a blast even though Imbrescia did nab us. Of course Scott's was a blast (from what I remember of it). And we must not forget the infamous movie night. Boy we were mad waiting up at Springfield / Hopefully we'll finally get to see that movie. And then there was "Star Trek II" with those little crawling things going in the people's ears - how gross. And us all laughing through the funeral. Great! Thanks for talking with me when we were waiting at Pam's for Rudy. I still haven't talked to Dale about anything yet. I'm not really sure it's going to work, Well, we'll see a lot can happen over summer. Howard's been telling me that a lot lately. I hope things work out between you and Jon. Whenever you want to talk just give me a call & come over. I'll always be there. I love your "big sister" personality. It's been there at all the right times. You're a great person to talk to. I hope everything works out with you and Mark. Whatever you do don't let him hurt you. He's not worth it. We're going to have a blast this summer. I can't wait to go to Thursdays. And later to Georgetown. Other of my friends may be leaving but I'm glad you're sticking around! Well, outta time. Thanx for being such a great friend. Love ya!

GRAY

Washington-Lee has many connections. The name itself is a junction of two famous Virginia Generals. Somewhere between September 8th and June 18th there has been a general connection, whether it has been connecting from vacation to school and back to vacation or just passing from the academics of school into the amusements of student life.

You may remember good times like conquering a challenge or being crazy with your friends. But with those good times came the bad times — a lost love or maybe an argument between you and your family. The true test was being able to accept the good times with the bad times, this general connection.

There is also that inevitable yet necessary connection between students and faculty. Without this solid connection, there would be no academic atmosphere to prepare us with the knowledge needed to survive in everyday life. After school, some students chose to do athletics while others preferred the less physically demanding activites such as clubs and honor societies. The Blue and Gray has attempted to capture all of these general connections and put them in the yearbook so that you may always remember them.

In June, for some of us it will be the final connection we make at Washington-Lee. Some seniors will be college bound, others will head for the job market. In fact, many of the people you see now, you may never see again. Yet, there may come a day when you will connect paths with fellow classmates. It is then that you will reflect on the many things you have learned and experienced at Washington-Lee. As for the underclassmen, many more connections lie ahead.

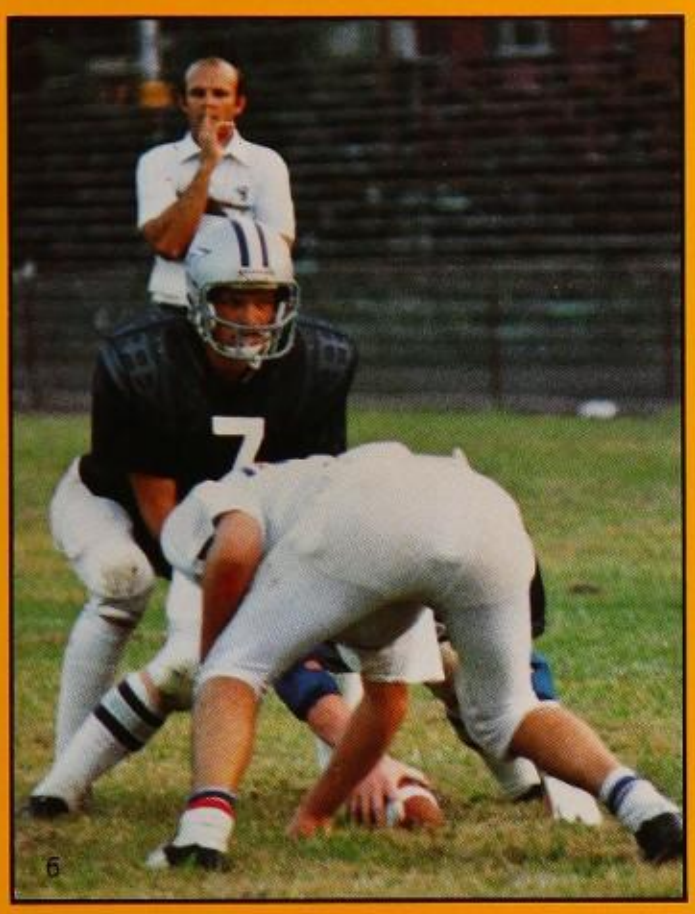
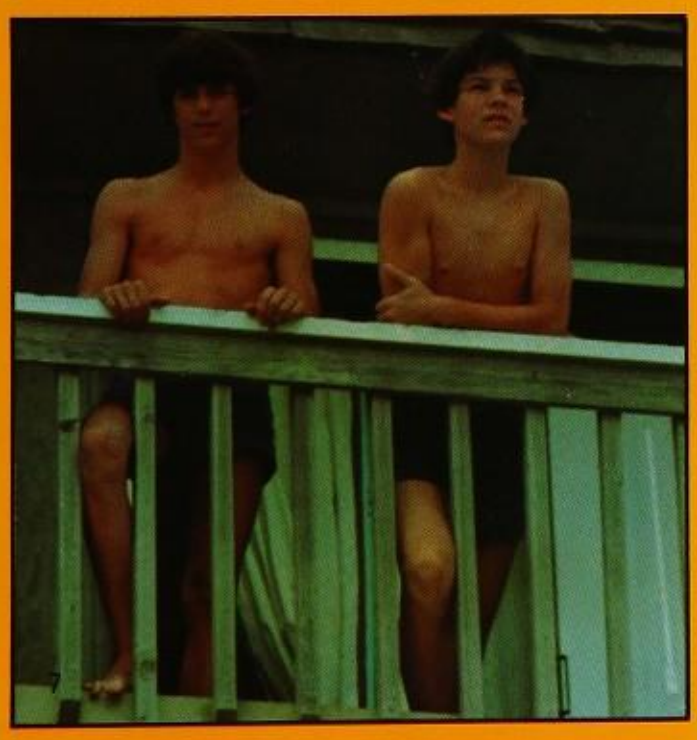
Debbie,
We have known each other for so long. ⇒ all the way back to Stratford. All in all its been a great friendship. You're a beautiful person with so much going for you. I wish you only the best in what life has to offer. We did have some fun in high school even if we didn't have any classes together. Well debbie, this is it. It has been a true honor knowing you.
Good bye and Good-luck
Love Always,
Tracy Merabb

The Crazy Daze of Fall





There was one inevitable connection every student at Washington-Lee had to go through. That connection was from summer into fall. It came time for everyone to come back from the beach and wash the sand from their bathing suits in order to put the suits away for next year. The first day of school was great, seeing your friends again and comparing tans. But finding out you had been scheduled for Auto Shop 101, when you had signed up for Fashion Merchandising sent you back into that frenzied day-to-day routine of school. This connection may have dazzled, duped, and even frustrated you, but you made it!

1. Kelly Pippen and Maria Logothetis "catch some rays." 2. Dorothy Kulczycki enjoys the autumn breeze. 3. Mrs. Martin looks thrilled about coming back to school. 4. You can see the juniors mounting enthusiasm. 5. The varsity football team turns their tanned muscles into toned muscles. 6. Jimmy Daly takes on football season with a snap! 7. Chris Pippen and David Harmon look on the last few moments of vacation. 8. The varsity cheerleaders jump to it to see that W-L spirit is aroused.

Paint, Plant, & Play!

In the early season of the school year when no activites seemed to be developing at Washington-Lee, painters, planters and musical players spent some time preparing for the up-coming school year. Senior, Melanie Wilkins designed the pressbox for its traditional redecoration. Members of the class of '82 worked together to have it painted by the first football game of the season. Meanwhile, the band members met on the field to practice their marching to achieve perfection for the up-coming halftime shows. On the Stafford street entrance, landscapers used the gifts from the classes of '79, '80, and '81 to beautify the grounds. This produced a finished outdoor court for students to gather during lunch, before and after school. All three groups worked for the common goal of benefitting Washington-Lee.

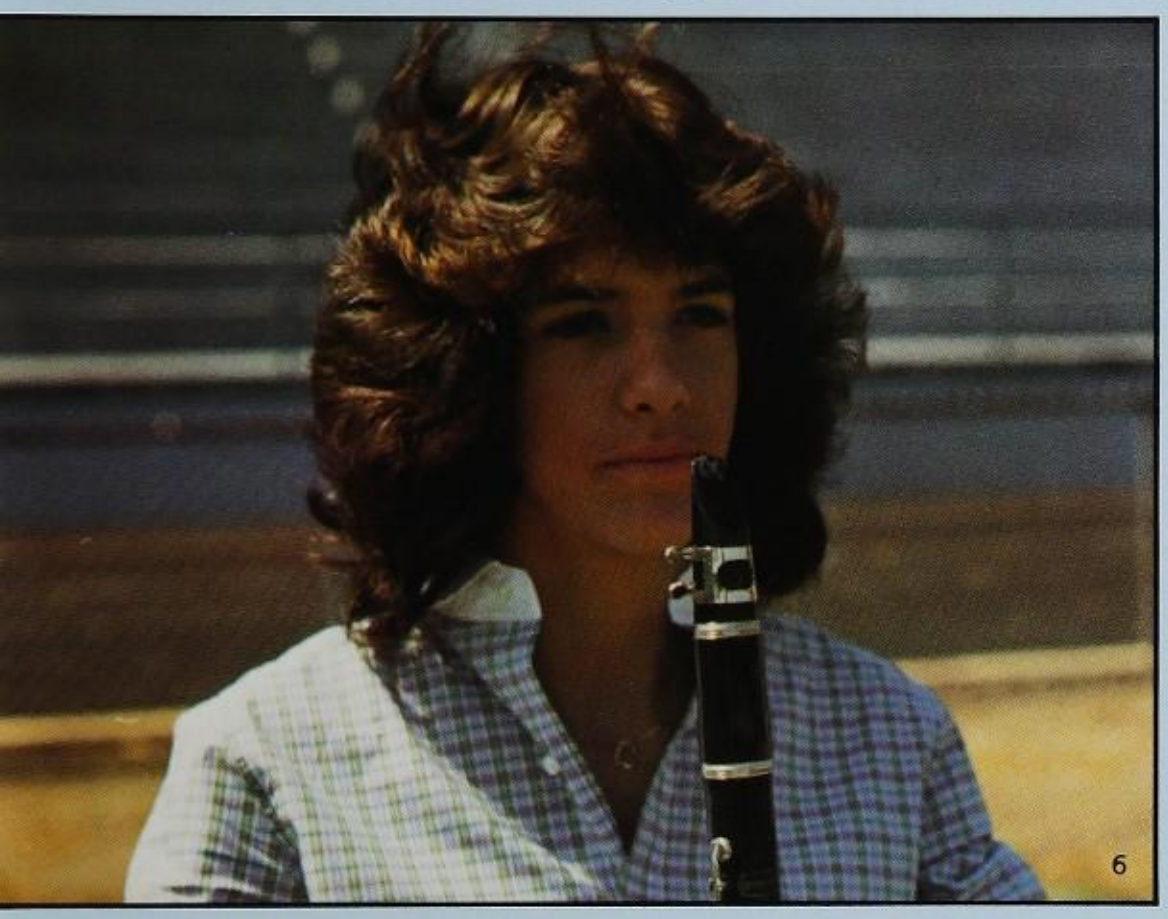
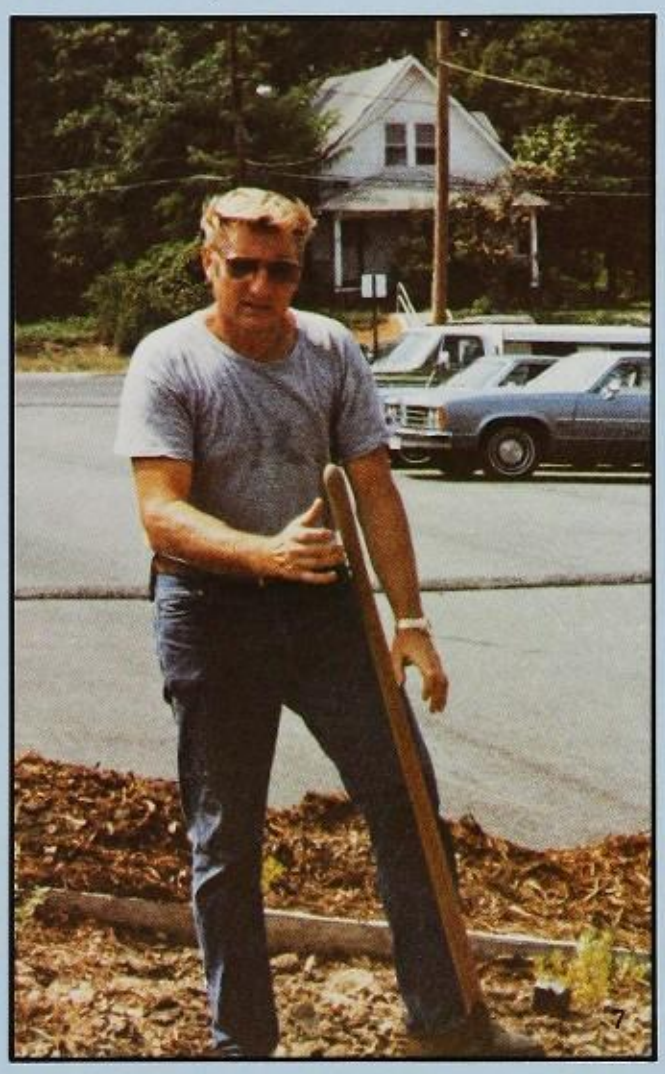
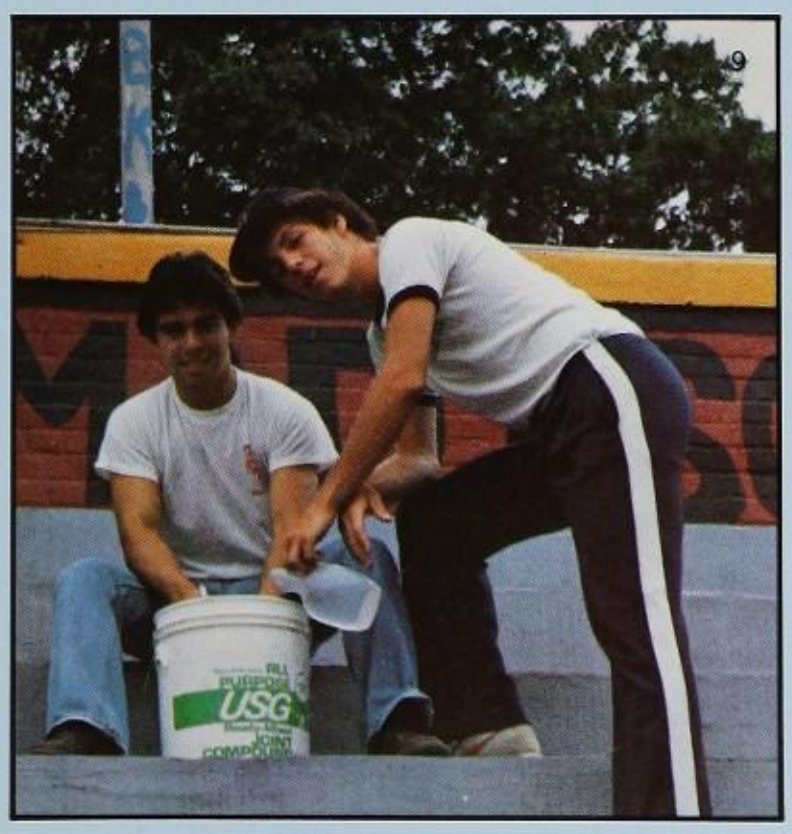
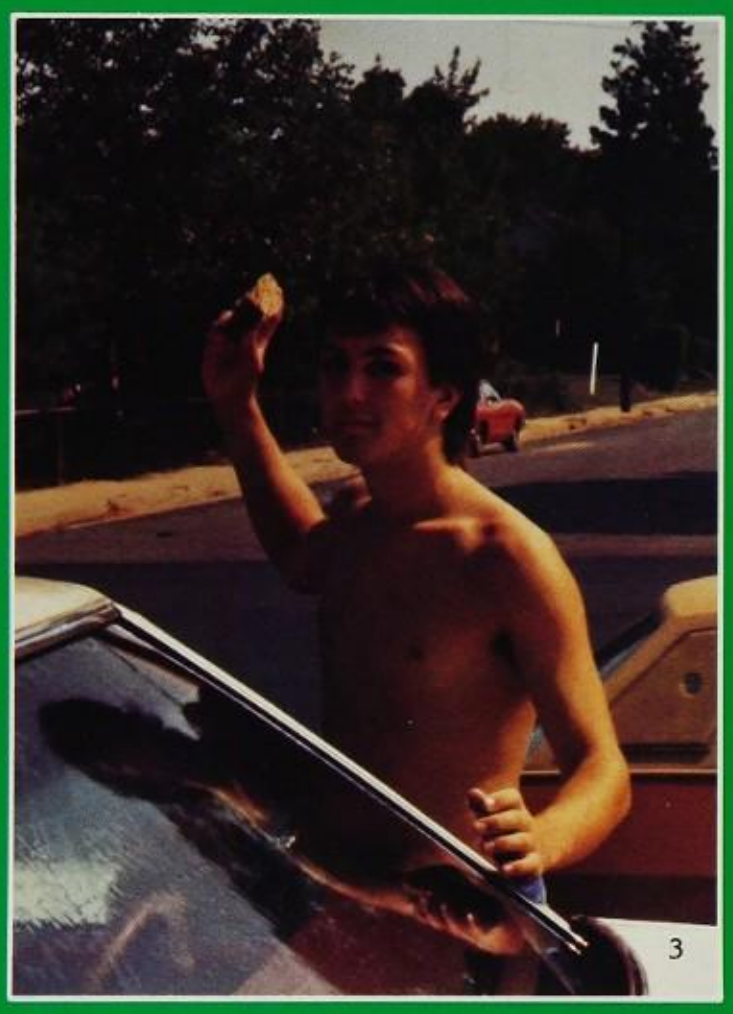
1. Annetta Minnich gives true justice to painting the pressbox. 2. Mark Magee lets you know exactly where the paint goes. 3. Cliff Dorman takes on the role of supervisor. 4. Perry Williams takes out his troubles on the drum. 5. Liz Reynolds gets into painting. 6. Playing a tune for all to enjoy is Elisa Richmond. 7. Did you ever imagine seeing Mr. Pond truly shoveling dirt? 8. John Lambeth sets the pace for the pep rally. 9. Mike Doherty adds a little spike to the paint Ramon Paredes is stirring.

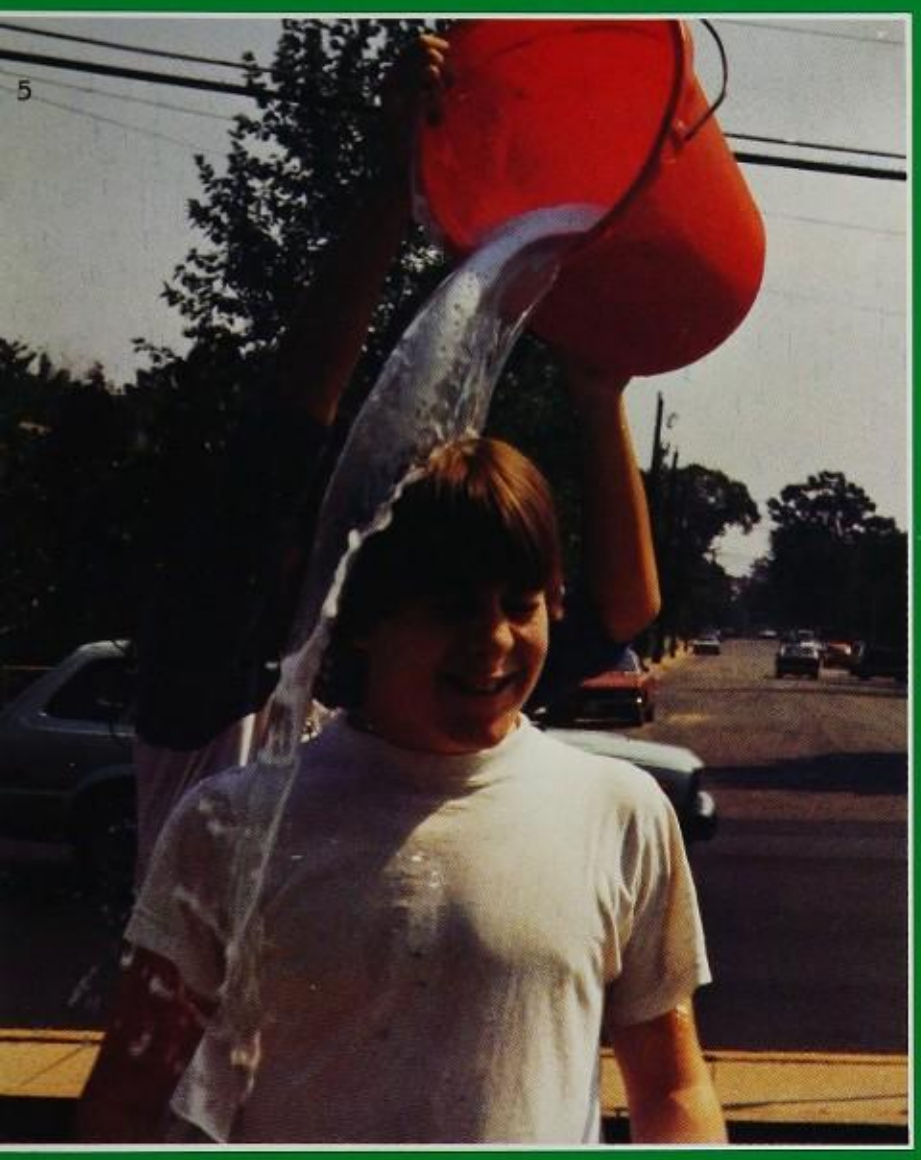


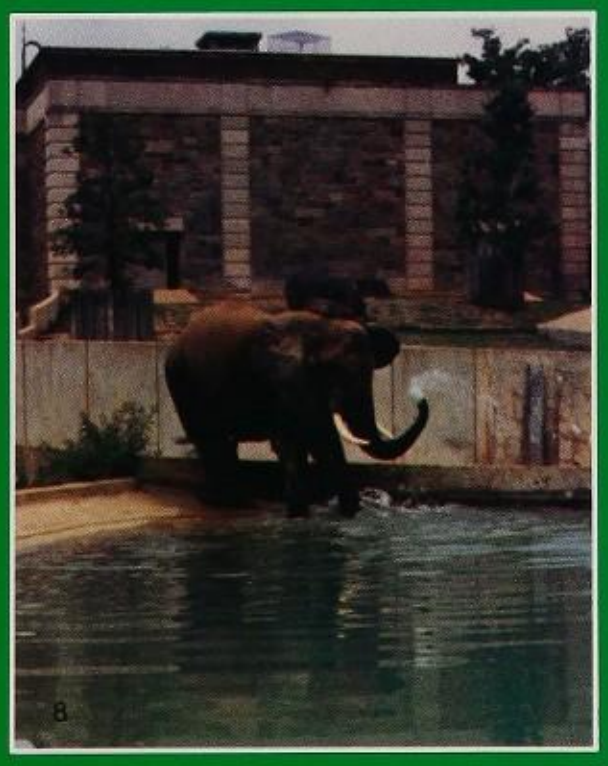






1. Camille Steverson asks, "Do you have the munchies?" 2. Patricia Burke looks like she wants revenge. 3. Peter Guldseth threatens all with his loaded sponge. 4. Kshama Shukla, the rose bud in suds. 5. Looks like Chris Russell is taking an unwanted shower. 6. Jennifer Gee "helps" Betsy Day cool off. 7. Lisa Johnson asks, "How many more cars do we wash?" 8. Jumbo, the bathing beauty.





Splish, Splash!

. . . I was taking a bath, all upon a Saturday morn. Along with the intense heat and humidity of the late summer and early fall came the need to cool off. Some found relief in a car wash while others relaxed in the elephant bath house of the zoo. Yes, even animals other than the juniors cooled off by splashing around. The car wash turned out to be quite profitable and a lot of fun! In the end, however, no one was sure who got doused more — the cars or the juniors!

Dear Debbie;

hey, hey, well... the years about over, and that means the end of school! we've had some good times, and we've had some bad times, but we're always managing to stay good friends! Let's just hope we stay that way! You're a great friend, and one I'll never forget! Take care of yourself, and don't do anything I wouldn't do, (And that's not much! hee, hee)

Love always,
Friends Forever,
Beth Buranen

Keep in Touch -

1. Beth Buranen and Jimmy Mona are closest of friends. 2. Heidi von Bernewitz, Mary Thomasson, Liz Kronwall, and Simone Acha are truly the four muskateers. 3. Gail Craddock and Delia Jones enjoy the warmth of their friendship and the day. 4. Kathy Bell and Mindy Stulberg discuss the test they just took. 5. Mr. Bourne will give you a helping hand. 6. Betsy Day flashes her friendly smile. 7. Claire Grimm and Dawn Grimm say, "We are family!" 8. Colleen O'Day and Frances Fortna share the happy times. 9. Myrna Pagoaga and Sandra Gallardo have a secret joke.

You've Got a Friend

When you failed driver's ed., or when your dog chewed up your homework, or even when the kids in P.E. made fun of your pink and orange socks, there was always someone to turn to. That someone was your friend. You confided in him your deepest secrets like that guy that never noticed you or the girl you sent a love letter signed "The Roving Romancer." Yes, your friend was there for you in good times and in bad times, and whether you've known them since kindergarten, or just met them three weeks ago, you're still as close as can be. Now, isn't it nice to know that you've got a friend?

Night Moves

Those crazy nights that you will never forget came along with ones you may want to but can not forget. Remember going to the football games where you cheered "Sha-Boom's" or "Go, Gorilla, Go" with your friends, and where you met that special someone you thought you would never forget. Those nights were filled with dances, parties big and small, night time eating binges, and even some quiet moments at home. All of the nights spent during your years at W-L were filled with work or relaxation, whether it was writing a term paper due the following day or the party you went to instead. Can you remember those nights?

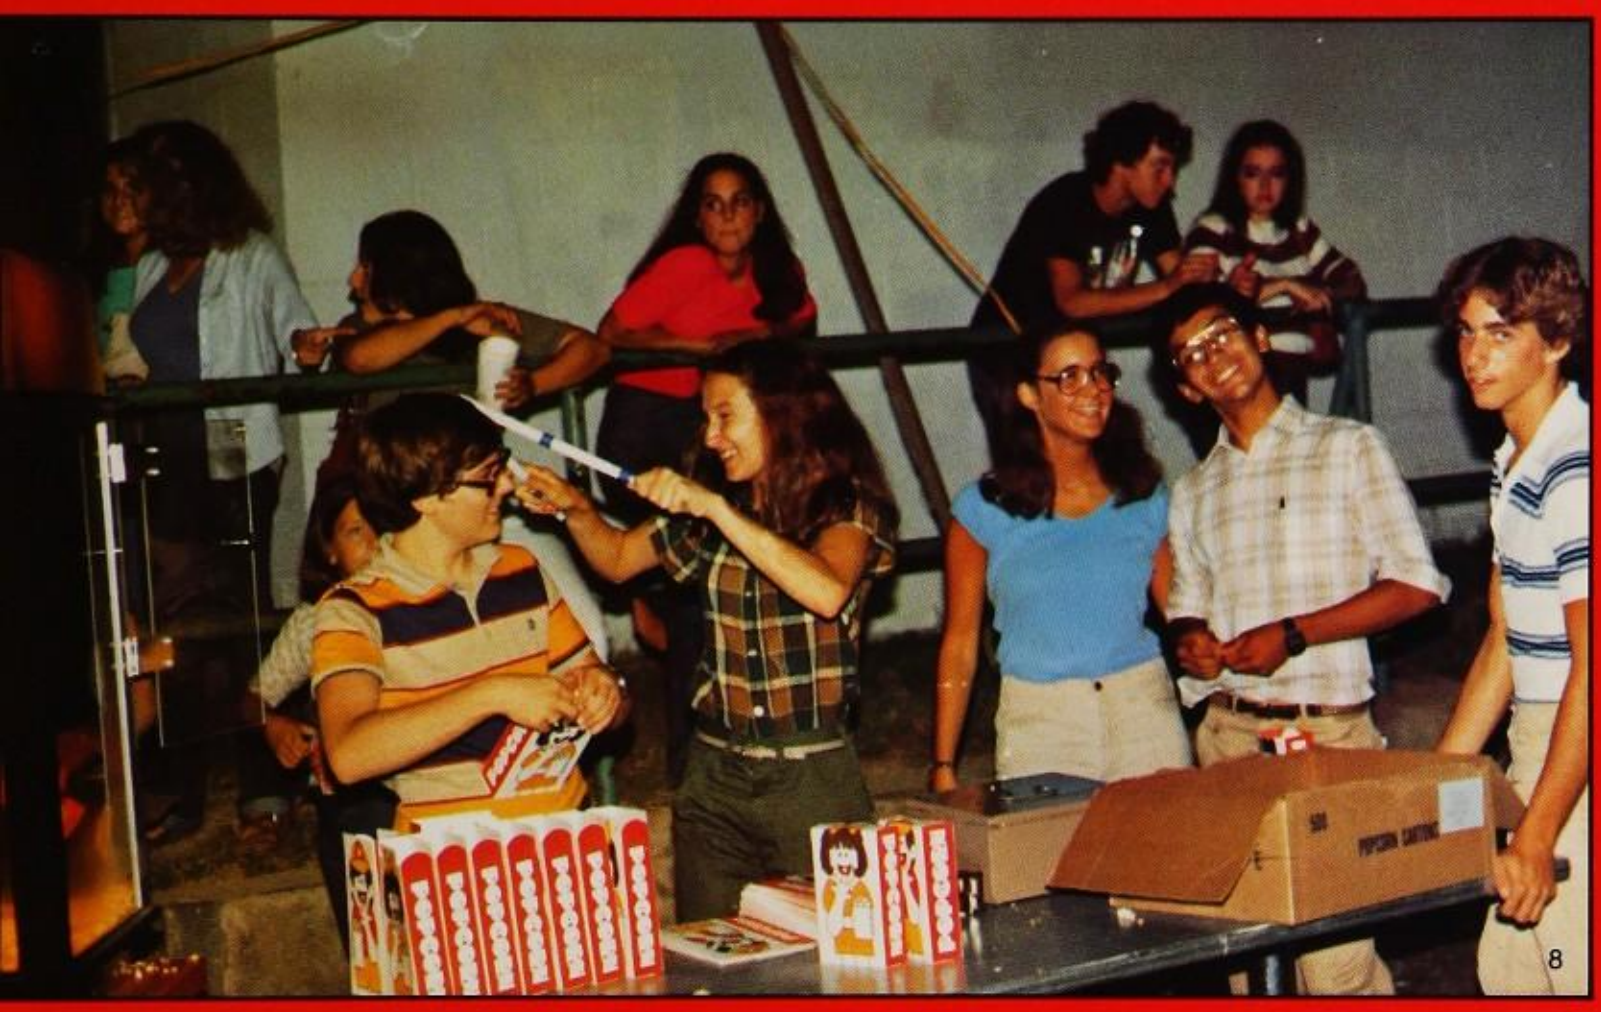
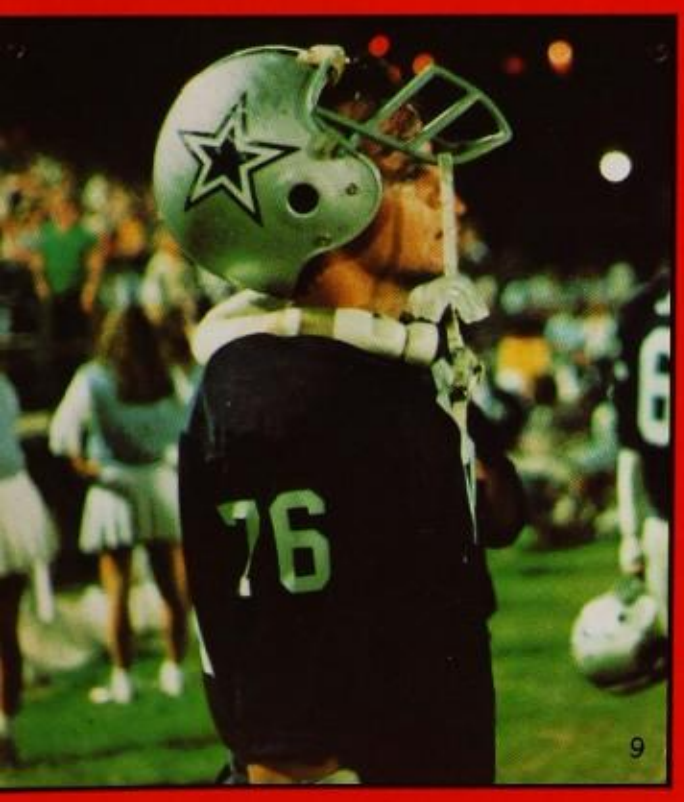
1. Ginger Revercomb cheered the night away. 2. Karen Girman says, "Hey, What's happening?" 3. Jeanne Seville finds everything at the football game funny. 4. Dora Hardman really shined during the half time show. 5. Lisa Kuhn, the Jaws of the pool table. 6. Don't you sometimes feel fenced in?! 7. John Vail and Mike Maghee move to the beat of a different drummer. 8. Penman popcorn gives a thrill to Eric Franklin, Katherine Boller, Susan Kole, Maurice Ramirez, and Jeff Mellor. 9. Steve Elfers is moved by the night's events. 10. Mimi Koumanelis and Valerie Blackburn have had better nights.





Face the Facts!

Some happy, some sad, these faces reflect the feelings everyone has felt at one time or another. The anticipation for the up coming weekend, the agony of being defeated by a test, realizing you're in the wrong room at the wrong time — who knows better than you what memories you have left here at Washington-Lee.

1. The look of awe captures Jenny Murphy. 2. Kevin Meek knows how to capture the spirit of success. 3. Jamie O'Leary is distracted by someone in the stands. 4. Smile!! You're on candid camera, Chrissy Graham. 5. Mark Hart didn't know that was the way the exercise was done. 6. Dao Minh Duc gives a friendly smile for us all to enjoy. 7. Rick Aldridge says, "What you mean I missed the bus for the game?" 8. The true poker face: Arakel Sakaryan. 9. "Hey, I'm not supposed to be in the pictures," exclaims Todd Delahanty. 10. Suzanne Irwin thinks about no left turn on red in Drivers Ed.

Connect Generals' Spirit!

The weather report stated that the night of October 23, 1981, would be a cold and rainy one. The temperature fell to 42, but it did not stop the Generals from playing the Homecoming football game. The rain did not deter the ever faithful fans, band, drill team or cheerleaders either. The floats even made it to the game, though a little soggy, and the winners were selected by the damp but understanding judges. The floats placed as follows:
1st Place: Seniors Theme: Mix Madison
2nd Place: Juniors Theme: W-L Will Shine
3rd Place: Sophomores Theme: 51 Years and Still Going Strong
4th Place: Freshmen Theme: Mash Madison
As the winning floats circled the field, the homecominng halftime show proceeded. The band and drill teams, having done their routine, made a path for the class officers and homecoming court to enter. Following them were Dr. and Mrs. Sharbaugh. As the rain poured down, the winners were announced and Dr. Sharbaugh crowned Kristen Withers the queen and Tim Ingrassia the king. Though the game was lost to the Madison Warhawks, the atmosphere of excitement stirred the Generals and their fans.

The freshmen attendants Stephanie Schollaert and Michael Gauche make their way across the field.

Jon Lane, substitute for Mark Purdy, escorts freshmen attendant Stacy Smith.

The junior class float attempts to shine through its veil of plastic.

The freshmen float just before it "Mashes Madison".

Sophomore attendants Lisa Parker and Anne Proctor hang on to their escorts, Scooter Brown and Charlie Smith for dear life.

The Washington Lee Marching Generals perform — Rain or Shine.

"The Homecoming Dance Brings a Rainbow After a Stormy Game."

The rain on Friday night, October 23, preceded a rainbow the next day. The good weather on Saturday got all the W-L students in the mood for the festivities that were going to take place that evening. The dance began at 8:30 p.m. and ended at 11:30 p.m. The theme was "Over the Rainbow". The music was provided by "E-Z Living". They sang songs by groups ranging from AC/DC to Kenny Rogers.

As you entered the door to the dance you visioned rainbows, clouds, and lots of excitement. The students had prepared feverishly for weeks for the homecoming dance. Everyone was dressed in their best outfit and anticipation was written across their faces for what was going to happen that night.

The homecoming King and Queen were Tim Ingrassia and Kristin Withers. As they approached the dance floor the band began to play "Don't Want to Leave Her Now". Near the middle of the song all the attendants joined the King and Queen on the dance floor and began to dance. As the song was ending everyone who was at the dance was participating.

The dance started the school year off to a perfect beginning and made many memories that all the students will cherish.

"But Howard, I'm sure I see my date looking for me over there somewhere," says Jodi McCauley.

Lorne Blackbaume attempts to steal a kiss from Sandy Bullock.

Ana Simon certainly has her eye on someone else, but then again so does Gary Lawhorne, her date.

Still another happy couple arrive at the dance, Sherrie Brooks, Chris Venuto.

Susan Kole and Maurice Ramirez certainly know how to make the best of their evening!

Their Highnesses, Niza Hoft and Anna Pahno.

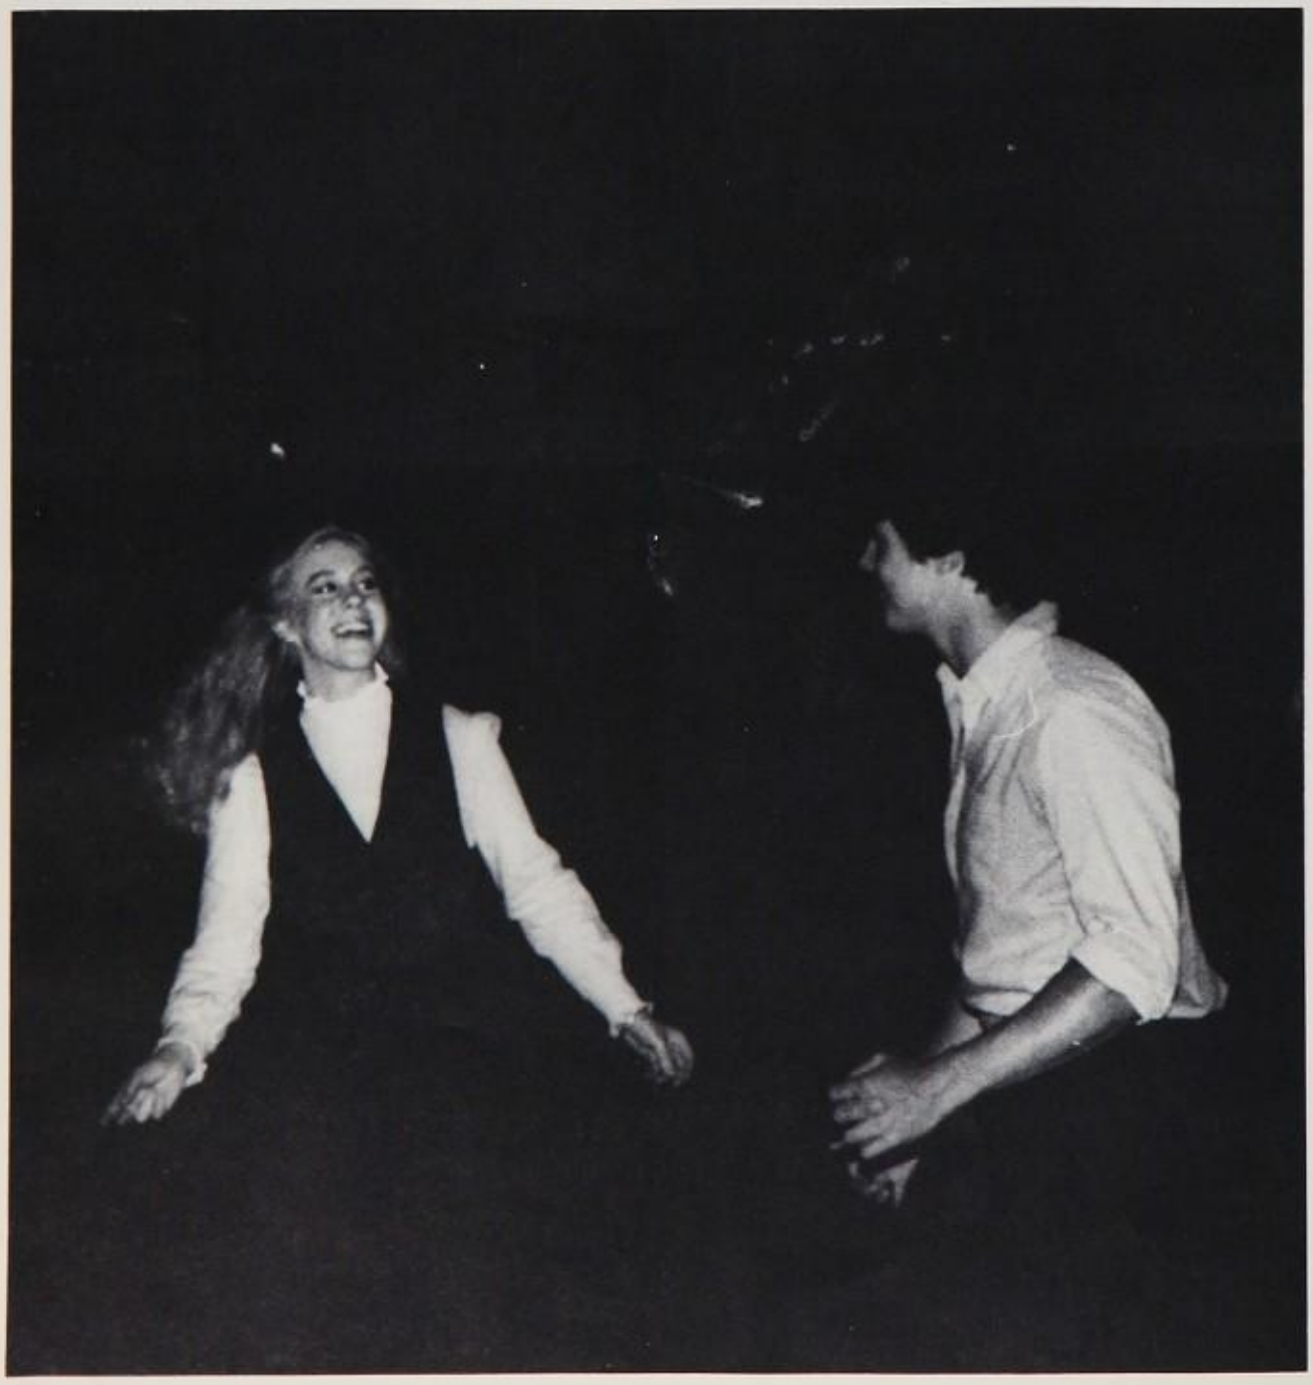
"Fifteen Years From Now."

Fifteen years from now, where will we be? Think about it. Some of us will become secretaries, doctors, models, lawyers, etc. Will we recognize each other; better yet will we remember each other? We'll remember all the great times we had at dances, football games and parties. We will look back to the times when we thought the hardest thing in our lives was having to take the S.A.T.'s and cramming for finals. But now we will be worrying about paying bills, buying food and just plain living. Here is a tribute to what some of us may be doing 15 years from now.

Cliff Dorman, architect, designer of things to come.

Anita Sale, band leader of "The Band."

Margie Vick, the future queen of disco.



Angie Nicely, crazied mother of nine.

Mark Magee campaigns for mayor.

Margaret Bentley works towards a job in the computer field.

Jim Donnelly, brick layer of the future.

Dale Goss dreams of being an auto mechanic.

Bruno, Spike, Leather and Acid, alias Brian Duffey, Suzanne Sonnegren, Lily Ho and Ann Hoagland.

Spirit Week — A Smash!

Homecoming "Spirit Week" was a hit at W-L, the first two days being the most popular. On Monday October 19, the teachers walked down the halls with wide eyes and confused expressions. Who astounded most of them were the Punks with pink and blue hair, safety pins, and dog chains. The fact was that everyone got into the swing of things for the Homecoming "Spirit Week". Tuesday proved to be almost normal as students either prepped out, down to the Izod socks, or went anti-prep in jean jackets and baseball hats reading "Farmers of America". On Wednesday there was no school because of the Teachers-In-Service Day. Then Thursday, people donned their funniest hats, most outlandish socks, and wierdest ties. Finally the week ended on Friday with everyone wearing blue and gray clothing. Such was the agenda of the 1981-82 Homecoming "Spirit Week" of October 19-23.

What a prep, she has it all! Chris Elliston.

Books seem to wear this prep out! — Glenn Lavoie.

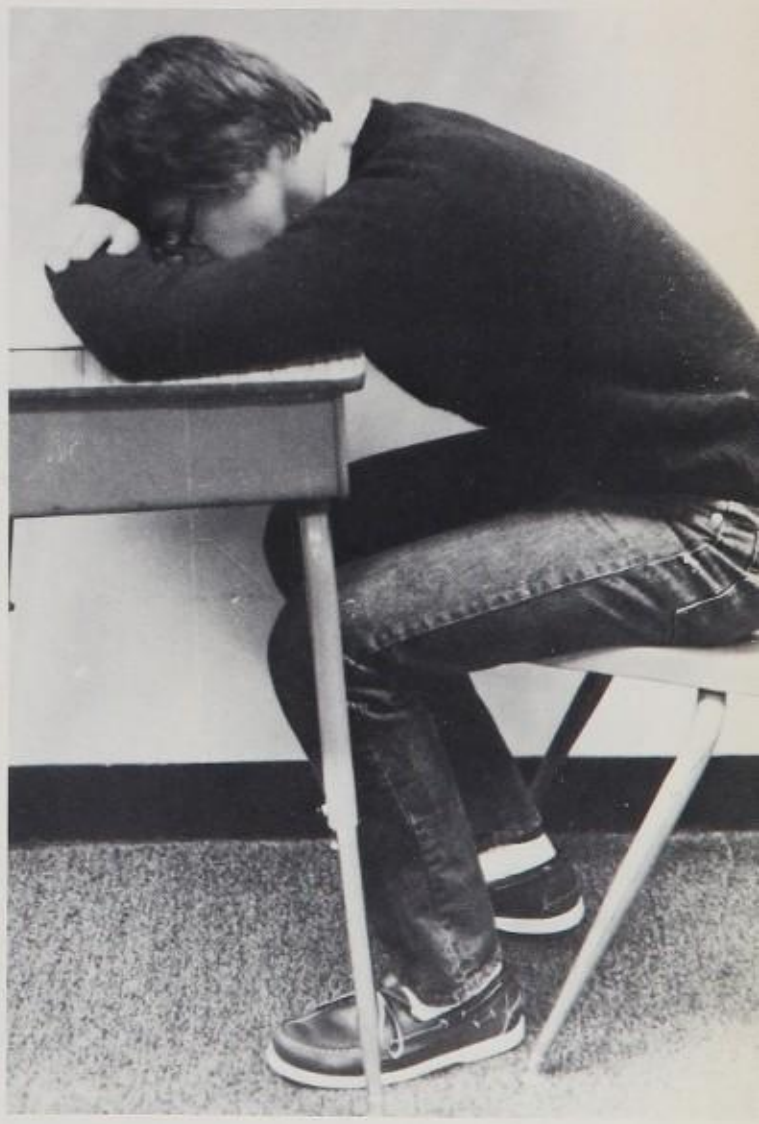
Look at those top siders!

Howard Watson and Laurie Badanes show their school spirit by shining and dressing anti-prep.



Bazaar Follies (and more . . .)

The winter season's festivities began this year with the annual Winter Bazaar, Saturday December 12. There were 85 tables featuring antiques, collectables, arts & crafts, foods from around the world, White elephants, raffles, clothing, entertainment, and Santa Claus (Tim Pritchard) and his helper (Maria Logothetis). Later, the Winter Dance was held in the gym. Couples danced the night away to the sounds of The Boogie Man. Then, on Wednesday, the door decorating contest was held, and the winner was Dr. Weinhart's A.P. Biology class with "A Paramecium Holiday". As vacation neared, hopes for a white holiday were encouraged by four inches of snow that fell in the Arlington area. Finally the day before vacation came, and the SCA sponsored the traditional Winter Assembly. It included the orchestra, jazz band, chorus, Madrigals and a skit by the drama department. As the assembly ended the holiday excitement of the students, faculty and custodians was at its height.

Dear Diary,

Remember I told you I wish I could find someone I really like. Well, I have!!!! He's in my Geometry class. His name is Mark Johnson. Oh, you should see him. Blonde hair, blue eyes, taller than me (finally I found one!). He is really popular, which makes me feel that I have no chance at all in catching him. I just don't think I'm his type. But Diary, this is the worst part; I think I'm in love! I don't THINK I am, I KNOW I am! He is sooo cute!

Dear Diary,

Today in Geometry I kept looking at Mark the whole time. I just couldn't take my eyes off his GORGEOUS face. If I could have just one dream come true, it would be that Mark would ask me out.

Dear Diary,

Jackie spent the night, and guess what we did! We called Mark! First I called and his father answered so I hung up immediately. Then Jackie called him and Mark answered. First Jackie wanted to make sure that it was Mark on the phone so she said, "Is this Mark?" and he replied with a plain "yes". Then we both screamed into the phone, "We love you, Mark!" and burst out laughing so we hung up. Then we called back once more and his father answered and asked us to stop calling. I wonder if Mark knows it was us that was calling him.

Jackie has this great plan: tomorrow in school we are going to pretend we are spies and follow Mark for the entire day without him knowing it! I can't wait!!

Hand in hand, walking onward to meet their future.

Peggy Ames whispers sweet nothings in Chris Athearn's ear.

Journal,

I asked Julie out. I told her I'd take her to see "American Gigolo" at the drive-in movies. As I was getting dressed I noticed something on my forehead. As I looked closer I realized I had a huge pimple, I looked like a cyclops! I called Bob up and he told me to just rest my head in the palm of my hand all night. Oh well, now I know tonight won't be successful.

So when I went to pick her up I had to meet her father. What a drag! I hate meeting fathers. He gave me a five minute lecture on how Julie is a good girl and I better have her in by midnight and so on. Finally we got out of her house and took off for the movie. By the way, I didn't mention this to Julie but I have seen "American Gigolo" twice (ha ha!). As we were watching the movie, I decided it was time to put my arm around her, but how to do it was my problem. I thought I'd wait five minutes and then do it, but five minutes had gone by and I was still chicken. Finally I came up with this great idea that I would act like I was stretching, then casually slip my arm around her. It worked!! Mission accomplished!

Then finally the movie was over so I drove her home. As we approached her house I turned the head lights on the car out. I parked the car and I casually began to move towards Julie, and she jumped out of the car and said, "Thanks a lot, I had a great time," and then she ran up to her front door and went inside. I couldn't believe it. I spent four entire dollars on her and I didn't even get one kiss. Oh well, maybe next weekend.

Pound the Pavement

Work, work, work! The job market is a frustrating place to be, but some students at W-L have survived in the business world. The variety of jobs that students are involved in range from veternarian aide to pool life guarding and management. Some people, when asked why they worked, replied, "Money" and/or "Enjoyment". Many students spend their money on expenses which their parents will not cover, others save it for college. The hardest thing about holding a part-time job during the school year, according to student workers, was the scheduling around homework and other school related activities. For many students it meant leaving the job, for others, merely tightening the belt on activities.

Grooming dogs is just one of Lenore Lampert's many jobs at the Animal Hospital.

Life In The Commons

The cafeteria, known as the Commons to the students at W-L, is not just a place to eat. It is also a gathering hall. Students often study together and converse over homework there. It is not unusual to see friends palling around and just relaxing from the strains of school life.

Lunch!

Study With A Buddy

The 1981-82 school year was remarkable in the way student-teacher and student-student study relationships went so well. Teachers gave up much of their free time helping out students who required or requested it. Work among the students also went very well; students helped each other on homework, reports, and projects of all shapes and sizes. The future looks bright for these types of relationships.

Kristen Hoganson and Karen Lacey really enjoy working together for the paper.

A Colorful Note

Art, English, Music Seminar (AEM) was a course designed primarily to broaden the students' knowledge of Art and Music. The course was offered to seniors only and consisted of two periods — a period of English and a period of Art or Music depending upon the day. Students learned the different Epochs of Art and Music. They made projects, drew sketches, and presented plays for the class. The course offered students many field trips to such places as the National Gallery, The Washington Cathedral and the Smithsonian Institution. This valuable learning experience made students well-rounded in the field of Art and Music. Senior Susie Leonard said, "It is a good follow up course after having taken American Civ. last year."

Kelly Pippen seems distracted from class.

You can always rely on a friend, Jimmy Daly.

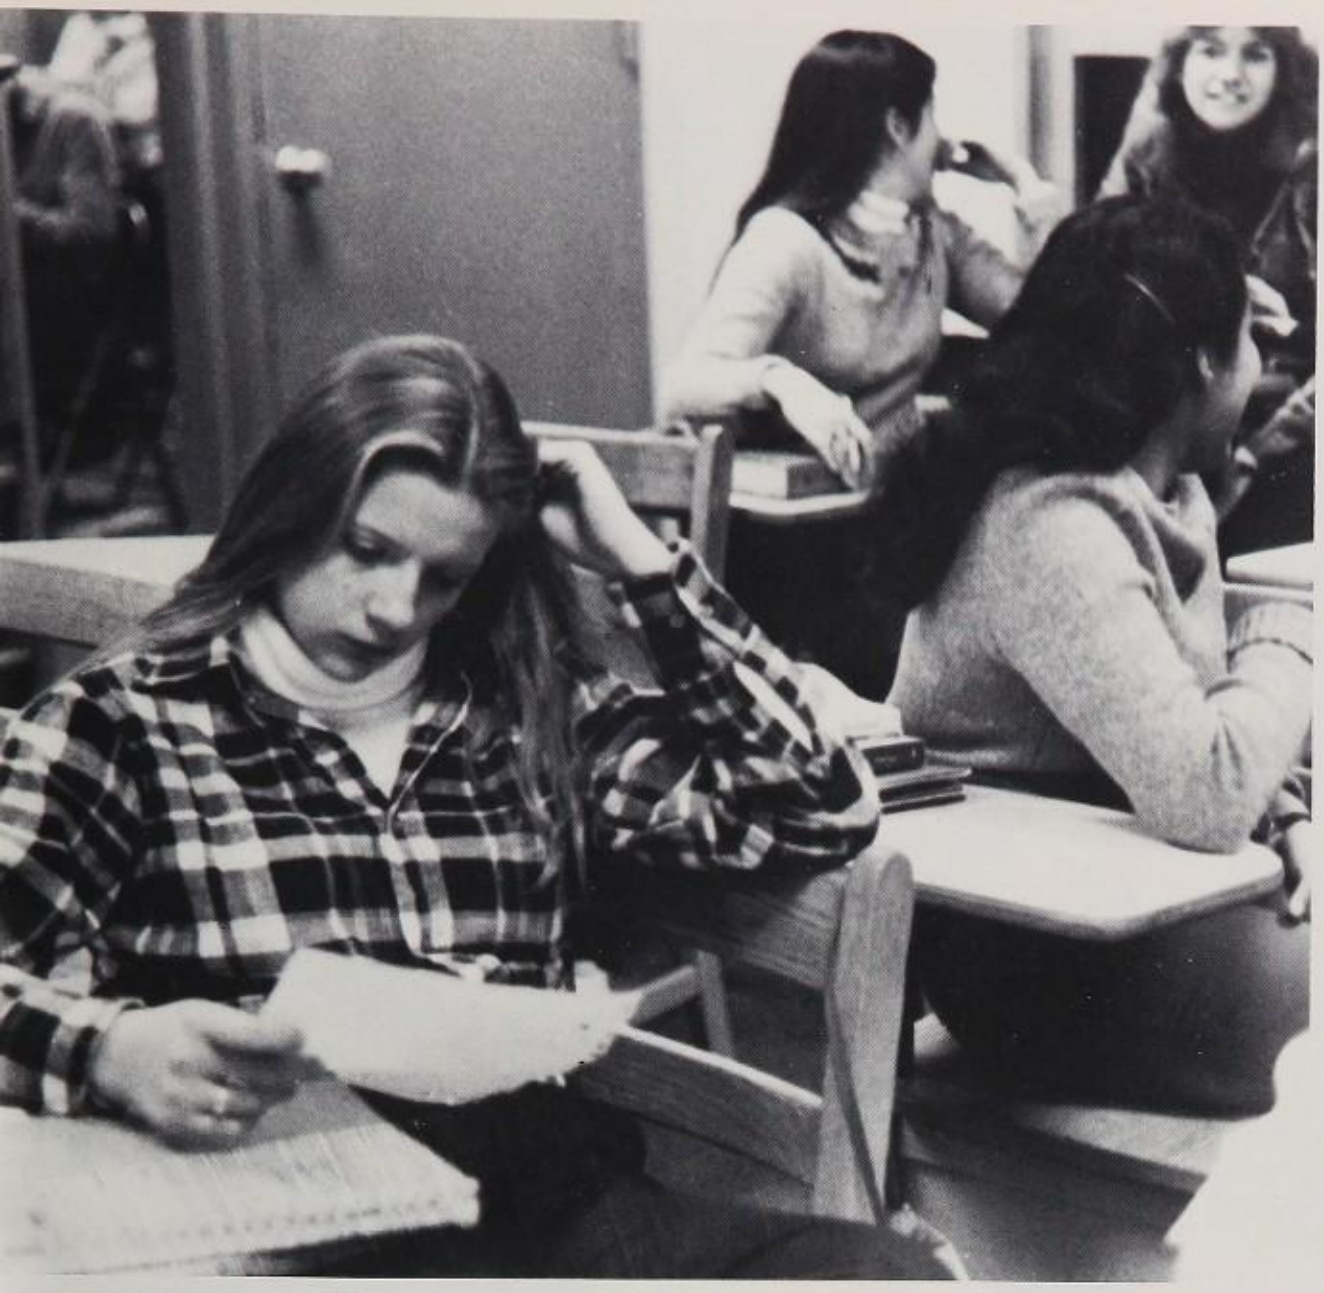
Tanya Hileman engrossed in her studies.



Cindy Slaton prepares for a test.

Mrs. Martin reads her latest fan mail.

Tracy sneaks a smile.

Beth Montgomery looks happy to be in AEM class.

The Ways of Life

American Civilization is a course offered only to the Junior class. This year seventy-five percent of the class took American Civilization. Most students signed up for the class after hearing last year's juniors talk so highly of Mrs. Jeens and Mr. Wyatt! Mrs Jeens handles the English and Mr. Wyatt takes care of the history! Along with the hard part of the class there comes the fun. For a small fee at the beginning of the year they take different trips to places like Williamsburg, Jamestown, The State Department, and also they have guest speakers.

Sixth period class is a very slow class.

Dianne Detling studies hard in class!

Kim Steel and Paul Mullis enjoy each others company!

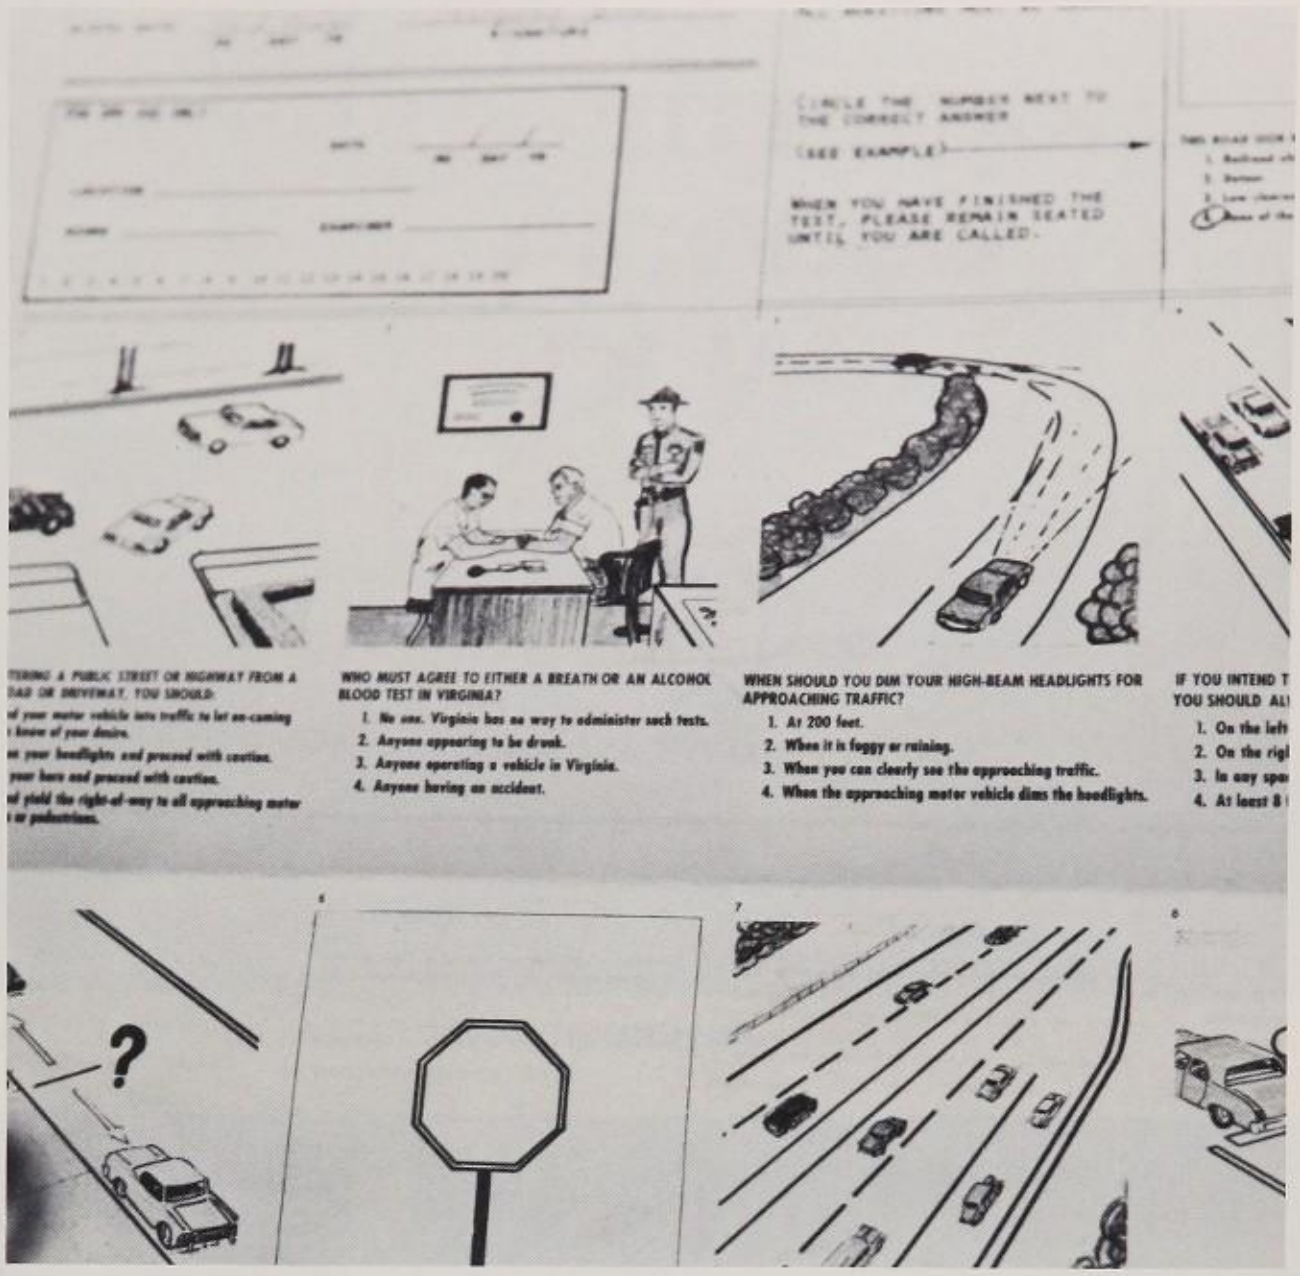
When does the bell ring?

Behind the Wheel

The Drivers Ed program has students from sophomores to seniors. Most W-L students like to take it at school, first because it's free, and second the insurance break if you get a good grade in the class. Mr. Coggins is known at D.M.V. for turning out some of the best drivers. His students say he's a hard teacher who takes pride in all his students who are willing to try! Mr. Coggins says he knows all of his students will remember him when they are driving due to his unique method of teaching! His students say they will remember Mr. Coggins because of his little Tennessee ring, and "You Cotton Picker!"

The learners test!



WHEN YOU HAVE FINISHED THE TEST, PLEASE REMAIN SEATED UNTIL YOU ARE CALLED.
WHO MUST AGREE TO EITHER A BREATH OR AN ALCOHOL BLOOD TEST IN VIRGINIA?
1. No one. Virginia has no way to administer such tests.
2. Anyone appearing to be drunk.
3. Anyone operating a vehicle in Virginia.
4. Anyone having an accident.
WHEN SHOULD YOU DIM YOUR HIGH-BEAM HEADLIGHTS FOR APPROACHING TRAFFIC?
1. At 200 feet.
2. When it is foggy or raining.

English As A Second Language

Dr. Gorman's Hilt class prepares for a test.

Each year a number of non-English oriented students register for Arlington County Public Schools. Before a student is accepted for enrollment, he is given a test to determine his or her English ability. Based on this test, the student is either enrolled in a regular English class or in Hilt.

Hilt (High Intensity Language Training) was a program designed for foreign students to develop their ability to understand the English language. The program was a five period course made up of English grammar, reading and writing, social studies and vocabulary, math, and science. The program, with the aid of Mrs. Theresa Bratt, Mrs. Mary Baker, Mr. Zane Gill, Miss Elsa Lenches, and Dr. Michael Gorman has proven itself a success as an introductory English course for foreign students.

CAREER CENTER ADDS TO STUDENTS' EDUCATION

The Career Center has served as an extension to each of the high schools. All high school students electing to participate in the programs offered at the Career Center retained their membership and affiliation with their "home" school. A person's career is a major portion of one's life. The occupations one chooses affects the lifestyle of the individual. It is the goal of the Career Center to provide the opportunity for each individual to discover his or her own special aptitudes and abilities and be able to recognize the particular occupation that would be the most satisfying and rewarding personally. In some instances the educational experiences at the Career Center will allow an individual to simply become more familiar with career opportunities so he or she will be more informed and perhaps be more definite in making a career decision before going on for more formal education. Others will be able to prepare themselves with a marketable skills for immediate entry into a full-time occupation.

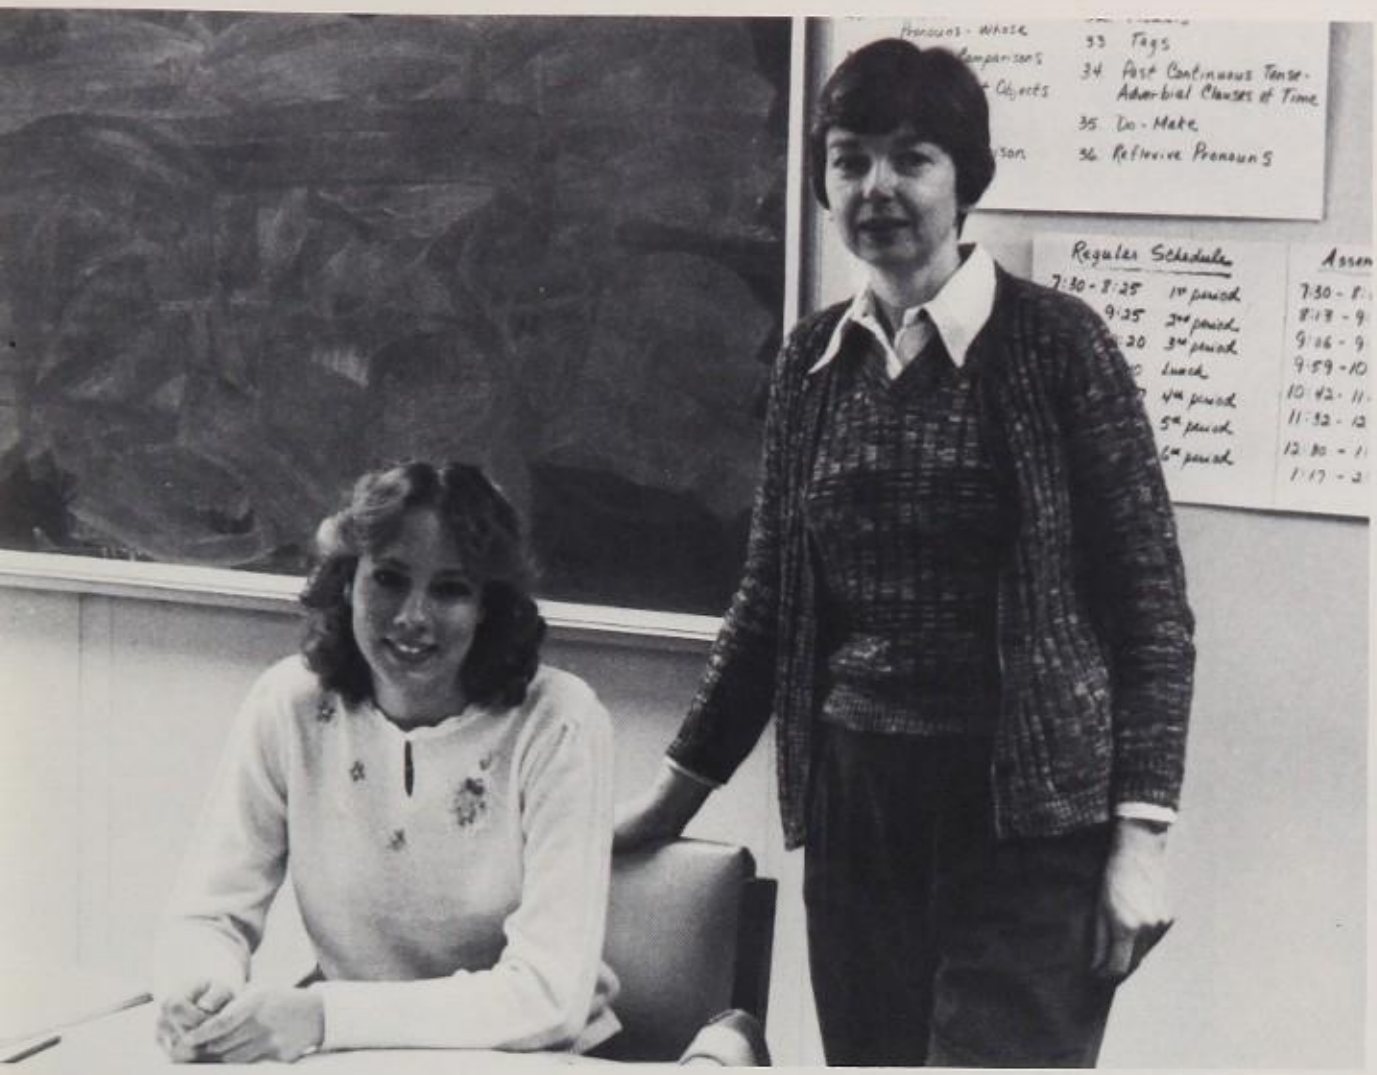
Teachers' Aides



Contrary to popular belief, the job of a student aide is not as easy as most people think. With the job comes responsibilities of doing such tasks as grading papers, helping with attendance, and many other various duties the teacher has to perform.

Students interested in taking the course must be in their junior or senior year of high school and must have previous experience of the course he or she will be assisting. The course which is one period long offers the student a sense of responsibility to both the teacher and the class while earning half a credit for the year.

One of the many tasks the aide has to perform is helping a substitute get acquainted with the class during the teacher's absence. This is certainly not easy especially when the class does not cooperate. But no matter how hard the problem seems, the aide working with the substitute, finds a way of solving the problem.

As one aide puts it, "Being a teacher's aide is not an easy course to take, but it has its advantages. The class tends to respect an aide as they would a teacher, and there's no better way of getting respect than from your fellow students."

Our High School Years

Memories are something everyone should treasure forever. In the past four years the Class of 1982 has progressed from the first freshman Class at W-L since 1950 to a most successful Senior Class.

Our ninth grade year started off with a bang; remember placing second with the Homecoming Float slogan "Bruise the Bruins"? We continued our year by selling magazines and cloth calendars. December rolled around and we gave birth to the Class of '82's Annual Raffle; it was a big success and turned out to be one of our biggest money-makers for our 4 years here at W-L. Our class officers that year were some of the ones who really made our Freshman year successful.

In between our Freshman and our Senior year, a lot took place. We continued to win second place for our Homecoming Float. For money makers the School Directories came about along with several candy sales, dances, car washes and our ever famous Raffle.

People started preparing for PSAT's, SAT's, and Achievements. Class Rings were ordered with anticipation.

Finally, our senior year began. The Pressbox was artistically painted and this year we won FIRST on our Homecoming Float ("Mix, Mash, Mutilate Madison"). We paid our $14 dollar Class dues and ordered our graduation announcements. The Class ranks were released and then the strive to better them or maintain them came. For those wishing to attend college next year, applications were sent in and the reply was eagerly awaited.

The Holiday Bazaar was a succcess and a major money maker this year.

Caps and gowns were fitted for and best of all our Treasury was holding out.

For some, June 17, 1982, came too soon and for others not soon enough. The Class made it through all the slumps and as we had been saying for the past four years — "The CLASS OF '82 COMING THROUGH" — finally.

Munch, Crunch, and UGH!

The "after school snack" has become an American institution as habitual and familiar as apple-pie, baseball, hot-dogs, and Chevrolets.

The urge to hit the refrigerator and grab our favorite goody creeps up on us during sixth period when "visions of sugarplums dance through our heads" instead of physics formulas, Greek Tragedies, and the formation of the future perfect verb (much to the dismay of our teachers).

This little urge-bug escapes nobody: the class brain, the practical joker, the jock, the musician, the grit, even the teachers (couldn't fool us!) get bitten by its voracious little pinchers.

After four years of after-school snacking, it can safely be said that we are connaisseurs in the art of "le gouter" (the french word for after-school snack). But our tastes run the gamet of food types. Dora Hardman enjoys gingerbread cookies and milk while Tracy McNabb and Maria Logothetis can't survive without popcorn. Jasmin Jao makes special trips to McDonald's for her gourmet snack while Chris Mann feasts upon a peanutbutter sandwich, twinkies, and milk. For Bob Mattingly nothing but pecan sandies and milk or Dannon Strawberry Yogurt will do.

The majority of us Seniors prefer to eat anything and/or everything our dear mommies buy, leaving a nice, clean refrigerator for her to refill again. A few of these culprits are Cliff Dorman who eats "anything"; Katherine Leupold and Travers Hoagland "everything". Gary Lawhorne's 2 o'clock banquet consists of three Mountain Dews, a chili dog, chocolate cupcake, cherrypies and a twinkie.

Then there are those of us who have particular food fetishes. Sara and Susan Kole love banana fritters, liver sausage and bagels with cream cheese. Erick Franklin can't do without his cold pizza, Mark Magee has almond cravings, Melanie Wilkins satisfies her taste buds with macaroni and cheese, and Mary Thomasson can't finish the day without her cheese and crackers.

Whatever snack you choose, just remember "after-school" snacking is no ordinary snack; it's distinct and has noble qualities all its own. So stand up and be proud if you are an after-school snacker, you are in a class all your own, with refined (???) tastes and individual habits worthy of respect and reverence.

Joey Cecil and Chris Mann have the munchies.

Class of '82 Tale

September was the month they chose to the end of school would journey, those brave young teens of Senior year to whom graduation was so dear. They began to gather applications and utter humble supplications in hopes a college would accept their hard earned grades which were adept. Achievements and SAT's were taken; all their faith was thoroughly shaken. "Harvard will not cast a second glance and UVA won't give me half a chance!" But all their tears were hushed in April — acceptance came with one huge dorm bill. On the trip was still another set to whom some college was not a major fret because they wished to have a career of their liking the very next year. Their concerns were job applications, pay per hour, resume preparation. Happiness came with their employment. A place in life to which they went with joy and glee, no anger or strife. They were prepared for their new life. The pilgramage ended on their graduation, the hardship was through and then came the fun. But sadness hung heavy in the June air, high school would end with this grand affair. To friends and teachers we did say Bye-Bye with exchange of address and hugs and cries. Here ends the tale of their long journey, their courage and strength was something to see.

Seniors Rely On Guidance Office's Support

The most dominant element of a college-bound senior's life is the researching of colleges, taking required tests, obtaining information on financial aid, and preparing applications to be sent off. Most of these procedures involve the need for help from the Guidance Office.

Around the January 1 deadline, one would think that our poor counselors would be climbing the walls, but no, they handle it cooly and with ease from their vast experience. "It's just part of my job," said Mrs. Guter.

The only situation that annoys the counselors are "the seniors who don't allow for deadlines," said Mrs. Guter.

Counselors are especially busy because most seniors at W-L do further their education. If they don't go to college, most take parttime classes while holding a job.

Another duty they must help seniors with is setting up appointments with recruiters. Said Mrs. Sorrell, "There's been an increasing interest in the military."

Do they ever tire of us seniors? "No, I like working with the kids — they're bright, happy and excited about planning their future," said Mrs. Moberly.

Nick Goode and Mark McKinley study because of their counselors' influence.

Images of College

College. An awesome word really; one word that signifies the purpose for all our strivings and endeavors. It represents twelve years; the majority of our seventeen years. It's our goal, our cause, our ambition, and the end of one phase of life as we know it.

In our senior year, college became a living, breathing, existing creature that haunted our dreams, called us, sent us letters and forced us to do a number of things such as take SAT's, achievements, get A's to bring up class rank, and put four years of our lives on a single piece of paper.

We felt swallowed up in a world of pressure, paper, and people. And that intimidating college: "What does it look like?", "will it be very hard?", Will I like my roommate?., Is there any kind of social life?", "What?", "Why?", "Where?", "When?", "How?".

Most of us have pre-conceived images of our future institution of learning. Lori Welker feels that there will be "lots of homework, lots of work work", but that "dorm living will be fun", an attitude that was expressed quite often.

Annetta Minnich, taking a lighter view hopes for "good-looking guys and a lot of fun."

Many students, however, communicated their wish for a more mature atmosphere both in the scholastic and social aspects of college life. Said Simone Acha, "It won't be as cliquish as high school." Mary Thomasson wanted "a mature outlook on life and a chance to be independent."

INDEPENDENCE!!! Another awesome word; one that we've been given lectures about since childhood by both mommie and daddy and teach: "When you're out on your own you'll see that . . .!" In terms of new experiences, independence will be first on our list. "Can we handle our money without blowing it all in a week?" "Can I handle my own meals or will I buy junk food all the time?" "Will I stay out till the cows come home or will I get myself to bed on time?" "Will I . . .?" "Will I . . .?. etc. etc." Puzzling questions for we little waifs who've been cuddled and coddled all our lives and will suddenly be thrust harshly into the world to land on our duffs, pick ourselves up, dust ourselves off and start a new life.

Only time will tell if our ideas were justified and where our destiny lies. We can only shake hands, wish each other "good-luck" and push off without second thoughts. We then live the imagined life and make the future the past.

Senior Rembrandts Compose Masterpiece

As tradition has it, the Senior Class had the priviledge of painting the Pressbox. During the summer the materials were gathered and the appearance of the Pressbox began to change. A few weeks into the school year was all that was needed and the Pressbox was completed. Many people helped and the pressbox's design was unique and symbolic of our graduating year.

Melanie Wilkins was the creator of the design while Libby Weber and Simone Acha chaired the committee. They organized the dates of the painting, and bought the paint.

Unfortunately there exists another tradition: the vandalizing of the pressbox. Fortunately we overlooked this act of immaturity and had it re-painted within the day.

Expressions

In day to day life many facial expressions are used; many of us are not even aware we make them. Some daily examples are — "tomorrow, class, we will be having chapter six through twenty-eight test"; immediately groans are let out and faces wrinkle up. More expressions are when an extremely difficult problem on a test occurs eyebrows will go up and down. Anxiety will creep up and our eyes will "bug out". Other visible expressions are when a cute somebody walks by, or when you are bored silly. There are so many ways of expressing our true feelings without opening our mouths and facial expressions are one popular way.

QUIRKS

Whether we admit it or not we all have those little nervous habits which we have named "quirks". There are the finger nail biters, the hair twirlers, the necklace twisters, the foot tapers, the finger nail clickers, the nuckle poppers, the lip biters, etc . . .

Our quirks are mainly seen under pressure or nervous situations when we would rather rant and rave but instead we "quirk".

Some friends may bother you about your annoying little habit, but most, since they themselves have quirks, let you go ahead and vent your frustrations.

High School Sales Executives

In our four years at W-L, all of us, at one time or another must have been asked to sell something — whether it be chocolate bars or calendars, Christmas ornaments or M & M's.

A lot of us might even feel frustrated, for it is, after all, frustrating to have to sell 50 of this or that to people who "don't have any money".

You're probably swearing, as many have done, that "after high school, I'm never gonna sell anything again!"

Then there's the problem of keeping the stupid money straight! According to your trusty information guide, you should have $15.50 but you come up with $13.67 and have to fill in the gap with your hard-earned dollars.

Another nagging problem: is the "friend" who says "can I take one now, I'll pay for it tomorrow! I swear!"

But all in all, the profits that are made from these sales help to finance many worthy causes.

Some of us may feel like vendors!

Skip Day

Senior Skip Day is one of the few traditions students have kept up over the years — but many Seniors don't realize that this "privilege" is not and never was authorized, and is most definitely not excused.

Why aren't Seniors granted this small privilege? "We would be in violation of state law," said Dr. William Sharbaugh, but "in most cases it does occur."

Who designates the skip day date? Usually it's the number of school days of the last two digits of your graduation year. It's heard by word of mouth and then, before you know it, crowds of Seniors are "missing-in-action."

Our Elected Officials

An essential element of any class is the class officers. The Senior Class officers for 1981-82 school year were Tim Ingrassia, President; Sara Kole, Vice-President; Dora Hardman, Secretary; Mark Magee, Treasurer; Anna Pahno and Liz Reynolds, SCA Representatives; Mike Doherty, School Board Representative.

Certain goals are necessary in making a class, especially a senior class, work successfully. The officers set several goals to help make the class's last year be a memorable one. One aim of Sara Kole was to "unify the class of '82." Tim Ingrassia's was to "have, by the end of the year, twelve thousand dollars."

The officers have done an admirable job and it was not an easy task to coordinate the dances, Holiday Bazaar, and graduation along with the many other activities that have been conducted by the officers.

Soap-Mania

The soap of which I speak is not the sort that bubbles and removes dirt. I speak of the afternoon sob-stories that draw thousands of viewers every day to witness their newest antics. Almost anyone we know can fill us in on Luke and Laura's latest situation on "General Hospital" or tell us who they think killed Diane Ballard and Joe Bradley on "Guiding Light". These discussions spark up every day in familiar conversation and draw thousands of other people around them to give their opinion.

"Carrie Todd killed them but she was under hypnosis!" said avid "Guiding Light" watcher, Simone Acha.

"I can't wait till Hutch gets back, and Scorpio's cute, too!" said "General Hospitalite" Maria Logothetis.

"Dr. Bradshaw and Ann are going to get together because they hate each other; Alan and Monica got together, and they hated each other," revealed G.H. watcher, Donna Lekang.

Another major revolution is the revelation that members of the male sex do in fact watch soap operas, contrary to the popular belief that they have so profusely spread.

"I don't want it announced that I watch "General Hospital," said Todd Delahanty. Scott Sowers said, "I watched General Hospital during the ice princess and snow machine and I don't see how anyone could get wrapped up in something so farcial; I watch them because there are no cartoons on."

What is it that is so appealing about these soap-operas? The outrageous problems, the mooshy-gushy love stories, the fact that all the characters are doctors, lawyers, or nurses, or the fabulous places that the stories take their characters? Whatever quality it is that draws us in, there is no escaping its snare. The ranks of soap-maniacs are large and devoted and will long be remembered for the change they've caused in television viewing.

Our Beloved Sponsors

Mrs. Sally Bassler and Mrs. Mary Martin, sponsors of the class of '82 were an immeasurable help, with their guidance and support throughout our four years at W-L.

They first became involved with our class when Mr. Ness, the assistant principal in 1974, called to ask them if they would sponsor us. Mrs. Bassler said she was "excited because I had known many of the students for as many as four years."

Their responsibilities as sponsors were not specifically defined, but Mrs. Martin said that their basic duty was "to work with class leaders to coordinate class activities" and, added Mrs. Bassler, "to act as liason between officers and administration."

Asked if they would do it again, Mrs. Martin replied "for them — yes." Mrs. Bassler said she would "but a break of a year would be nice!"

Mrs. Bassler's feelings about the class of '82 — "We've been fortunate in having a core group of officers who've been willing to work." Mrs. Martin said "They're a special class — I love them!"

The feeling is mutual, I'm sure. Thank-you, Mrs. Bassler and Mrs. Martin!!!

Mrs. Martin helped in every way!

Mrs. Bassler is pleased with the class of '82's progress.

18 Things Every High School Grad Should Know

With graduation past, we probably feel like we're on top of the world, and know everything there is to know, but there are certain little things that all grads should know to polish off our savoir faire.

French

1. coup de grace (koo de grahss) — any finishing or decisive blow.
2. enfant terrible (an-fan te-ree-bl) — anyone who causes trouble through indiscreet or unconventional behavior.
3. fait accompli (fet' a-kom plee') — a thing already done, so that fighting it is useless.

Science

4. natural selection — according to this rule, a species changes through the play of heredity. Those who inherit the characteristics needed in mating, fighting, and food-getting are most likely to survive.

Art

5. Starry Night by Vincent van Gogh (1889) — He painted Starry Night in a sanitarium just after cutting off his right ear. One of the first uses of conscious distortion in paintings.

Influential Movies

6. Citizen Kane (1941) — stars Orson Welles. Based on the life of William Raldolph Hearst, the newspaper baron and would be politician.
7. La Dolce Vita (1960) — directed by Federico Fellini. Stars Marcello Mastroianni. Roman life in the 50's.

Scott Sowers says "There ain't nothin' that's not in this little book!"

Steve Elfers and Mike Atherton sing some Bach.

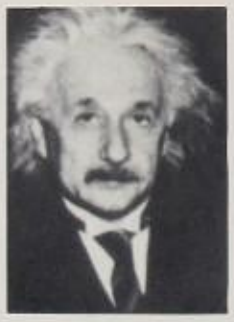
Vinh Phan knows the true art of dressing.

The Beatles!



Al Einstein

Katherine Ross and Dustin Hoffman in "The Graduate".

PATRICIA M. NOLAN.

GEORGE ANTHONY NULTY — "Noodle".

JEROME C. O'CONNOR.

8. An American in Paris (1951) — Stars Gene Kelly and Leslie Caron. All-Gershwin Score. A young painter in post-war Paris gets caught in a lover's triangle.
9. Casablanca (1941) — Stars Ingrid Bergman and Humphrey Bogart. "Play it again, Sam."
10. The Graduate (1967) — Stars Dustin Hoffman and Anne Bancroft. Gave birth to the Age of the Anti-Hero.

Misleading Adjectives

11. Tortuous — has nothing to do with pain. Means full of twists and turns.

Summer Vacation

Summer is usually a time when we lose track of friends for three months and mostly just goof off, but being our Senior Summer, it may be the last summer we have to be with friends and to be lazy.

A lot of Seniors like Kathy Tubbs and Barrie Britton are working and going to the beach, or working at the beach."

But some others are doing some really interesting things. Leslie Aun is going to "drive to California with friends and work in the casting office at Paramount Studios". Todd Delahanty will be going to boot camp. Nancy Marston is going to the beach in Florida. Simone Acha is "traveling in Peru". Heidi von Bernewitz is "working at Tanglewood".

Karen Lacey is "staying in an island cottage in Maine". Liz Kronwall is working and going to Tucson and driving to Texas.

Jodi McCauley spends her summer lounging by the pool-side.

Don't Step On Short Seniors

". . . short people got no reason to live . . ."

This is a sentence from a song that was very popular in our Freshman year. We would listen and go "ha, ha" without noticing the glum expressions on the faces of our "short people".

The problems faced by short people are numerous and bothersome; have you ever watched a short person try to put dishes away, or try to brush their hair in front of the bathroom mirror? All household fixtures seem to be positioned for people who are 5'5" or taller. To dance with people at dances, short people must be content to dance with people's bellybuttons. Trying to carry on a conversation with a tall friend can give a short person a sore neck:

"Having a friend like Kevin Meek can be a problem!" said Cliff Dorman.

"You get used as a chin rest," said Kerry Lynch.

"I can't see over people at museums," said Mary Thomasson.

Debbie Planert has an even more serious problem: she would like very much to be an airplane pilot, but one must have a sitting height of 34" and her's is only 32½". Said Debbie, "I hope I grow or I can't be Chief of Staff of the Air Force."

But the most difficult aspect of being short can be the constant reminder of the fact that you are short:

"Being short never bothers me except when people keep bringing it up," said Dora Hardman.

Until growth pills are invented, there will continue to be short people. So unite, shorties, and don't let tall people push you around!

Colleen O'Day's height doesn't impair her shooting ability.
Jimmy Zuras is just as big in spirit as Jerry O'Connor, Mike Weaver, and Gerald Jackson.
Cliff Dorman has the appetite of a 6 footer.

How did you like your past 4 years at W-L?

How did you like your four years at W-L? This question was asked to a number of Seniors who responded in several different ways. About ten percent of those asked stated that their four years at W-L were "lousy, dull, boring, a waste of time, or that it was a hassle." The majority of seniors polled gave a common answer of, "it was O.K., all right," or that it was "no big deal". Another five percent, when asked this question, either answered "I don't know" or they just sat there and stared into space. Then there was that five percent who thought their four years at W-L were "intellectually stimulating and advantageous to their continuation of higher education". So, as this survey shows, our class is made up of a wide variety of people with many different views of their high school years.

Mike Atherton, Steve Tryon and Robin Jones weren't sure how they felt.
Susan Foxwell refused to discuss it.
Laura Powers enjoyed W-L.

Graduation Gifts

At the time of graduation, many things are happening, and one event that adds to the joy of graduating is receiving graduation gifts. People receive a wide assortment of gifts for graduation. These gifts come in many different shapes and sizes; you might receive a watch, a camera, a typewriter, or luggage, if you are going far away to college. Maybe those buying the gift cannot think of what to get and end up giving you cash, which is always nice. There are also those few lucky people who get a new car!

Punk and Prep, Here to Stay?

Punk lovers find their far-out get'ups at Commander Salamander's in Georgetown, or they manufacture their own ripped t-shirts and safety pin earrings. You can spot a punk by their leopard skin clothing, dark make-up, and dyed hair. L.L. Beane in Maine provides preps with their wardrobes. A prep would not be a prep without chinos, Docksides, and any Izod article of clothing.

A Punk isn't a punk until he's seen The Rocky Horror Picture Show at least once. They listen to the music of the B-52's and other music that you can physically abuse each other to.

Preppies follow the guideline of the Preppie Handbook for their entertainment, and participate in private parties and buying more Preppy clothes.

Whether you take these trends seriously or lightly, they have still contributed to our over-all school experience to add a deviation from the norm.

Punkers turn out in force.
Mark Magee thinks prep is a way of life.

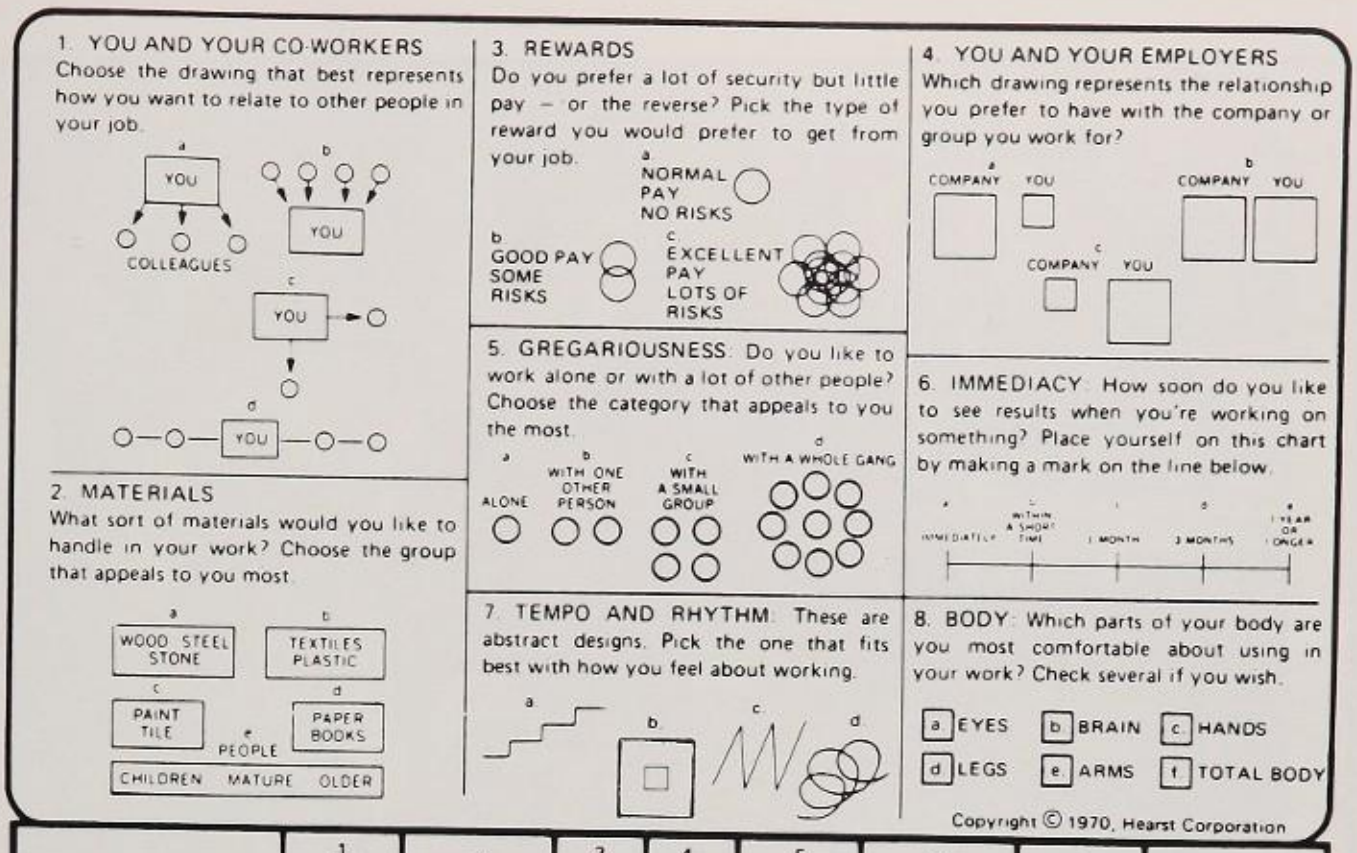
WHERE DO YOUR TALENTS LIE?

Ernest Dichter, Ph.D.

Here's a short test to choose the job or occupation that best suits your personality and preferences. The test is simple and fun. It's not intended to take the place of scientific vocational testing . . . but nevertheless, the results may surprise you. Just put down your initial emotional reaction to each question or drawing. Do your scoring on the bottom half of this page following instructions in the paragraph below.

Under the number of each question are the letters representing the various answers to that question. Circle the letters corresponding to your answers. Now go down the column under each circled letter, and circle every X mark in that column. The occupation in which you have circled the most X marks is the one in which you would probably be most happy. The second largest number of circles will show you what the next best occupation (or hobby) might be for you.



1. YOU AND YOUR CO-WORKERS
Choose the drawing that best represents how you want to relate to other people in your job.

Final Farewell

As we conclude our four years at W-L many of us will have mixed emotions about leaving. There have been great times and some not-so-nice times. We will be saying "so long" to Homeroom and school lunches. Goodbye to teachers and friends whom we have met and become close to. Some of us will be furthering our education next year, while some of us will join the working forces of this world.

Our lives will change after June 17th and many of us will not see each other for quite a long time.

During the past four years we have gotten through exams and SAT's together and now we must travel on to further our experiences as our own individual self.

The End.

Deb,

The last time I saw you, you were in 10th grade, and I was in 10th. Now here it is 3 yrs. later & you are in twelfth grade, and myself, well I was stuck in 11th again. No but seriously, I really wish I never quit school in the first place. I wish I was a senior this year all with everyone else. But as fate has it, I won't graduate this year. If I had friends that were all like you, I would have it made. Seriously though, I thought in 10th grade & ever more so now that you are & have got to be the most friendliest, sweetiest, considerate in us-l. It really is a shame that there isn't more like you. Take good care!!!

Love, Jackie

First Days

Throughout our early years, we are taught the importance of first impressions. "You want to look presentable; remember, it's your first day," mother would always say. She would say that everytime we wanted to wear our holely Levi's and flannel shirts, even if it weren't the first day.

Well, think back to the first day of this 1981 school year. We must all admit we had a little skepticism about what lay ahead for our class, but as the old proverb says, "Don't judge a book by its cover." After opening the cover to a new year, our class settled into a time filled with frivolity and merriment. Our early fears about the year were assuaged when the officers got the class rolling with numerous activities. We began looking forward to Homecoming, Christmas, Spring vacation, and finally, summer. We were to discover that every minute of this year would be worth it; we were also to discover that you can't trust a first impression . . .

Even the rain can't dampen Beth Young's spirit.

What Lies Ahead?

With our senior year next up, we, the members of the Class of '83 must step back and take a close, but brief look at what lies ahead:

1. Senior Pictures
2. SAT's
3. Achievements
4. Class Ranks
5. College Applications
6. Dues
7. Cap and Gown Measurements
8. The Prom
9. Graduation
10. Senior Pranks

All of these items will make up our senior year. There is one more item, that because of it's importance must stand alone; that is the love and spirit that we will share with one another. It will be a very special love; one that will continue forever.

Until then . . .

Strong Leadership Overcomes Bureacratic Red Tape

With graduation growing nearer everyday, our officers spent their time raising money, constructing a float, and developing the unity that is so important if a class is going to succeed. Laura Mason returned as president, and her efforts should be commended to the fullest extent. Ann Messier and Eric Dobson returned from last year's cabinet and turned in a fantastic showing under pressure. Eric's handling of the Treasury allayed any previous wories about the state of union, and Ann's performance should be given its deserved acclamation. These three could not do it alone and they had excellent help throughout the year.

Gill Harvey filled the role of Secretary, and Cabinet newcomers Pam Scotti and Jenny Rogers kept the class advised on the activities of the SCA. Betsy Day's reporting the school board's red tape showed the class more efficient ways to run its government.

We owe many thanks to the Class Officers for '81-'82.

We've Got Spirit — Yes We Do

The dictionary defines the word SPIRIT as "a mood, special devotion, or loyalty." To say that our class "didn't have very much spirit" would be a terrible misconception. Our class showed itself to be a very enthusiastic and close group of students. After 3 years together, we have unified ourselves into a rowdy, school-oriented bunch set on one purpose — showing our school, and especially our fellow classmates and athletic teams, what it means to be a Class of '83 member. Our loyalty and special moods towards our class have made us a very unique bunch of students; our spirit is evident.

Schizophrenia

Being a junior just isn't what it's cracked up to be. The pressure builds, homework piles up, social depression sets in; it's one thing on top of another, until finally, "AHHHHHHHHHH! WHAT AM I GONNA DO?" The dictionary describes this feeling as schizophrenia: "any severe mental diseases marked by withdrawal into a stupor, hallucinations, delusions, and lack of contact with reality." Many of us have experienced schizophrenia this year. It has spread like wildfire throughout the students, including our class president, Laura Mason. No one has been exempt from it, yet, somehow, we were able to overcome the dreaded, "Junior Boggle". We were able to break through and now we have reached the end of the year, and it's time to relax; getting to this point had been the toughest, so now let's take it easy.

Better Times Ahead

Many seniors will tell you that their eleventh grade year was by far the toughest one ever; this year, the Class of 1983 believed it. With class ranks, college applications, and senior slump just a few months away, many juniors are looking for better times.

Until you are a junior, the realization of leaving high school, entering college, and starting a career has not caught up with you. Making the grades becomes twice as important, as this is your last chance before beginning college applications. Class rings, PSAT's, and the proper course selections for a fun-filled senior year boggle a junior's mind. "How am I going to get all this done?" seems to be the question on every junior's lips. Then follows the thought of many students at W-L, "I wish it was summertime."

When we put aside our present troubles, we realize what lies ahead for us. Next year begins our quest for possible careers, broader knowledge and happy lives. We have overcome the problems laid upon us with flying colors this past year; the cornerstone of our success has now been set. Our accomplishments of three past years show bright futures ahead if we continue to excel at our present rate. It is here that we must remember, class,

BETTER TIMES DO lie ahead!!!!!!

Murphy Goes to Homecoming

Murphy's Law, "Whatever can go wrong does go wrong," is an apt expression for this year's homecoming. In particular, it went wrong for the sophomore float. Audrey George, head of the float committee, explained what happened, "In short, the rain washed out our whole float. The float consisted of about 95% tissue paper, which got totally soaked, and then the dye ran out of the paper. The signs washed out, and to top it off, our truck broke down just before making the round of the stadium and had to be left at the school overnight." The float took five weeks to construct and cost almost $150 for materials," commented Audrey George. "I think for the amount of time, work, money, and devotion, we at least deserved a decent day to present our float on." This was the sentiment expressed by all classes and spectators that Homecoming night. The destruction of floats and good humor did much to demoralize the spirit of the classes as a whole.

The Last of Gym

Smelly sweatsocks, ice cold showers, running the mile and a half, going through the day with wet hair — it's gym class, of course! For sophomnores, it's the last year of mandatory gym class, and to some sophomores, this comes as a relief. As sophomore Sarah Pannier put it, "I hate to sweat." Some sophomores such as Wendy Lynch felt that "gym was a lot of fun. It was the only class in which I didn't have to think."

Gym, although varied in its activities, emphasized fitness. "The students should be able to swim the length of the pool, 25 yards, and run a mile and a half in 12 minutes or less by the end of the program," said Mr. Jack Walker, the Physical Education department chairman.

It was a lot of work, but most sophomores managed to meet the requirements and end their time in gym honorably.

Class Officers — Moving Up

The officers of the class of '84 were well-known and well-liked among their classmates. The class president, Charlie Smith, the vice-president, Lisa Parker, and the secretary, Claire Grimm, were all homecoming attendants this year. This was a nice change from last year when only half of the class had any previous contact with the officers.

The officers worked hard for the class of '84 with bazaars, sales and a number of other money-making enterprises. The class gave them a lot of support. As Charlie Smith says, "The spirit that has arisen this year is all-important and will decide the success of the class of '84 in our junior and senior years."

Lockers Through the Years

Originally lockers were just a place to put books and other scholastic items. This year lockers were very personal. Each locker showed its owner's particular personality. Some lockers were filled with pictures of teenage idols, animals, cute sayings, or other personal bric-a-brac.

Lockers were constantly being decorated for sports activities or birthdays. They were traditionally filled with candy on these occasions.

Lockers were also a place around which to spend lunch. Walking along the halls at lunchtime, various groups of students could be seen together, but that was all changed when rules about not being in the halls during lunch came into being. From books to birthdays to being a hangout, uses of lockers have evolved with the schools.

1 — Michael Restivo fishes into his locker for some treasure . . . and comes up with nothing. 2 — Georgia Girman and Sarah Pannier read a comic book.

A Year For Tragedy

At W-L, the sophomore year seemed to be the year of tragedy in English class. Shakespearean tragedies and Greek tragedies were the major literary works assigned in the 10th grade English classes. As if this were not enough, the characters of General Hospital, the widely watched soap opera, are constantly falling into tragedy or near-tragedy. With entertainment and literature like this, tragedy seems an unavoidable way of life. Sophomores may feel that they don't get enough excitement in their lives, but they certainly wouldn't want to equal the tragic ends of these fictional characters.

1 — Some of this English class looks like they're concentrating. 2 — Smiling through the tragedy of books, Catie Robbins looks tired of schoolwork.

FIGHTING THE BLAHS

By the time the second year rolls around, the sophomores blahs catch up with you. Sophomores have been around long enough to be blase about high school but not long enough to be thinking about the future. I asked several sophomores what they do to chase away the blahs.

K.S. "goes to Georgetown to see the 'Rocky Horror Picture Show'".

B.M. "makes hot chocolate milk and watches Bugs Bunny."

B.C. "does hand stands while watching T.V."

And finally, S.M. "paints pianos red."

While there are many different places to see and things to do in the Washington area, most sophomores cuddled up with their blahs and tried to coax them into leaving. Although it did not always work, most of the time the blahs could be kept at bay with some form of sport. Some sophs just did the creative, crazy things more often credited to teenagers than actually done. Of course, the most effective measure taken against the sophomore blahs was to pass all the classes and become a junior, with new hopes, ambitions, and problems.

1 — Steve Crowley smiles for the photographers. 2 — Jill Gentry looks like she has the blahs. 3 — Mohammad Jafari learns the computer arts.

Freshman Officers

This year's Freshman Class should set the standard for Freshman Classes to come. Their first month at W-L commenced with a breathtakingly close election. The lucky winners were Edward Hoganson, President; Melissa Steele, Vice-President; Kathleen McQueeney, Secretary; Jenny Kyle, Treasurer; Benjamin Finzel and Kirsten Parsons, Senators; and Stephanie Schollaert, third Vice President of SCA.

The winners had always been involved with their school's student council so they knew what would be expected of them as an officer. Their experience showed in the quick organization of their class and the enthusiasm with which they participated in school activities. "The pep rallies are great!" said Benjamin Finzel.

When asked about his first goal as president of the class of '85, Edward Hoganson expressed his desire to promote unity among the class. "Everyone was pro-Swanson, or pro-T.J.; we had to make them pro-W-L." In general their attitude was summed up by Jenny Kyle, "It's a great way to meet people."

Freshmen Fav's

After participating in a survey held in October, the Blue and Gray staff discovered that the freshman class has varied tastes, but there are things upon which they agree. Below are some of the amazing and not so amazing results.

MOVIE — "Raiders of the Lost Ark"

T.V. SHOW — M*A*S*H finished slightly above General Hospital.

SPORT — Football won in a squeaker over soccer.

ACTOR — Burt Reynolds beat Clint Eastwood by one point.

ACTRESS — Goldie Hawn dominated.

SUBJECT — English

TEACHER — Mrs. Bauman

HOBBY — The results were very diverse but got a lot of "girl watching" from the guys and a lot of "guy watching" from the girls.

SINGER — Beatles, closely followed by Foreigner and Trouble Funk.

NEW FAD — There was a tie between preppy and anti-preppy. Among the others were new wave, big band music, chocolate covered ants, Rubik's cube, and French Braiding.

BOOK — The results were very diverse with no two of anything. It ranged from Horton Hears a Who to Gone with the Wind to Flambards.

FOOD — Pizza

CLOTHING DESIGNER — Levi's (Surprise) followed by Calvin Klein's.

SONG — The results were diverse, but "Stairway to Heaven" held the lead.

Raindrops Keep Falling on Their Heads

Homecoming 1981 could best be described as an extremely wet occasion — not a very good impression for the class of '85's first homecoming. But the Freshmen's enthusiasm and excitement were the silver lining in that very black cloud.

According to Edward Hoganson, President of the Freshman Class, participation ran high in the float building project. "We had about 40 different people working on it and given our time, funds and other restrictions, it was a superb float."

The theme of the "superb float" of which Edward spoke was MASH MADISON! It consisted of a giant hammer moving up and down, and mashing a giant M made in Madison colors. With this piece of artistic mastery the Freshmen obtained 4th place.

All in all, Edward felt that homecoming was "not too bad" but expressed his feeling that "all the classes shouldn't have been penalized by the rain; something should be done about it!".

1. Final touches are added to the float by Michael Briskin. 2. Guy Diez, Curtis Berry, Bobby Cleary, and Ed Hoganson waiting for a break in the rain.

Freshman Artist

Talented Chris Scardina, 14, was the winner of the 1st Annual Blue and Gray Freshman Art Contest.

Chris has been interested in drawing since first grade and has compiled quite a few sketchbooks.

Chris had never entered an art contest before, so naturally he was quite happy. "All my friends are congratulating me; it's great."

Chris plans to pursue a career in art. With his talent, Chris Scardina will probably reach great heights.

Relaxation

Although school is traditionally a place of learning, each of us finds the time and the place in our busy days to relax and unwind. Relaxation is vital for academic success as well as peace of mind. Forms of relaxation have varied from taking a nap, sunbathing, and reading, to watching General Hospital. Often students can be seen taking a break from practices or studies, socializing, froliking, or teasing to relieve the tension of what lies ahead. The concept of having time to one's self is almost obsolete in the lives of today's students. Relaxation is hard to come by, but most of us have mastered the art by the time we re Seniors by making the best of our time together. So, Freshmen, stand up high and be proud you're freshmen, and enjoy leisure in its simplest form while there is still time. In the rat race to graduation don't forget to add the finishing touches of relaxation to your masterpieces.

1. Some freshmen unwind by going to the football game. 2. Annie Adjchavanich finds it relaxing to suck her thumb. 3. Norman finds roller-skating an amusing diversion.

Freshmen Are People Too!

According to the Webster's New International Dictionary of the English Language, a Freshman is "one in the rudiments of Knowledge," implying that Freshmen are less intelligent than others. And, of course, everyone has heard of elevator passes and various other pranks suffered by the Freshmen. These are two examples of the poor attitude people have about Freshmen. But why? After all, everyone has either been a Freshman or will be a Freshman, so why do people have a hang-up about 9th graders? There have been movies made about it; the ever popular National Lampoon's Animal House rides the top of the list. But Freshmen jokes and prejudices have been around since the beginning of schools and will probably be an ever-present part of schools to come.

Given the chance to air their views, several Freshmen had very strong opinions on the subject of class discrimination.

"The only time being a Freshman is really apparent is when upperclassmen put down Freshmen. It can be insulting, but usually the only people who do are those that are so insecure that they have to put down Freshmen to inflate their sense of superiority," said Sara Hurwitch, but she goes on to say, "Upperclassmen have not been insulting personally. No one's insulted me because I was a Freshman but rather insult Freshmen as a whole. I heard comments like, "Freshmen stink!"

Jennifer Scotti takes a lighter view, "I like being a Freshman and I don't feel like I'm that different from the rest of the students. I think that the Freshmen year is one of the best in high school."

Though their attitudes differed, I think that their general feeling can be summed up by Jennifer Scotti who said, "All the insults and degrading comments that are bestowed on Freshmen only make us stick together more and have more spirit. We have something to rebel against and we rebel together."

1. Quan Pham takes a break from studying. 2. Chris Pippen daydreams in class. 3. Colleen Blackburn would rather socialize than eat lunch.

ADMINISTRATORS

Dear Seniors:

How fortunate you are to be graduating from high school at a time when chances abound for you to demonstrate your many abilities. At this time in the history of the country and in your life you are offered a unique blend of challenges and opportunities. We have attempted to help you grasp that which you have sought. The special time that is usually referred to as the "high school years" has been happy, intense, sad, and many times confusing — but always education.

As you proceed to your many and varied careers, you will look back with fond memories of your classmates, your teachers and your school. Life will present you with many sets of circumstances and you will be measured by how you deal with what is presented to you. However, you will always remember the "high school years" and draw from them understanding, encouragement, and a sense of accomplishment.

May your future be the very brightest.

THE 1981-82 STAFF & CREW

This year's staff, headed by Dr. William Sharbaugh, did an exceptionally good job of helping students cope with another school year.

Our administrators worked hard to keep programs and activities running smoothly, and still remained accessible to all. The secretaries labored over schedules and college transcripts, while the librarians tried to maintain an atmosphere conducive to study. The custodians were made responsible for the school's appearance and our lunch ladies continually attended to our voracious appetites. Our attendance staff signed students in and out during the day and our nurses were constantly busy completing students' physicals the whole year through. And most important of all were the teachers, without whose help students could never attain a good education.

But however hard the work seemed, goals and ambitions were reached through the efforts of both the faculty and the student body.

Secretaries: Charlotte Brown, Sarah Mehrtens, Helen Pekar
Library Staff: Letilia Lam, Blanche Mays, Peg Mulcahy, Betty Hoyt, Hallene Swenson

Cafeteria Staff: Irene Fawcett, Kay Calandra, Stella Laski, Beatrice Miller, Barbara Gunther
Attendance Staff: Marie Baker, Lynn Simone, Carole Thomas
Nurses: Evalyn Taylor, Dolores Cefalo
Custodians: Steven Williams, Bonnie Dekins, Willie Payne, Rose Lewson, Hector Bacallo, Thomas Gillis, Melvin Brooks.

A Special Teacher

Mrs. Theresa Bratt was one of a few Hilt teachers in Washington-Lee High School this year. As director of the Hilt program her duties ran from tutoring students with their schoolwork to teaching Hilt herself. "The best part about teaching Hilt kids is the fact that you're learning something in return — you learn about different kinds of cultures and you want to learn more," she commented.

We should all be proud of teachers like this who offer their time and effort to help students achieve goals. In Mrs. Bratt's case, the goal was helping students learn to speak and write English fluently.

Arthur's Theme

Washington-Lee's faculty staff consists of interesting teachers, one of whom is Captain Snowden Arthur. "Not only have I been the youngest destroyer captain in the U.S. Navy, but I am the oldest teacher in Washington-Lee High School."

Capt. Arthur entered the U.S. Naval Academy in 1938. He became Editor-In-Chief of the Naval Academy Log, and earned the title of second best breast stroke swimmer of the 1938 Navy Swim Team. Capt. Arthur graduated from the Academy with honors. While in the U.S. Naval Service he started from the rank of ensign, ending as a full captain. He was awarded a Bronze Star Medal for heroic achievement during World War II.

When asked how he felt about life in the Navy, Capt. Arthur replied, "I'm one of the long line of gallant and daring Naval officers." He has been teaching English in Washington-Lee for 16 years. Maybe this was what he should have meant by "the long line of gallant and daring" . . .

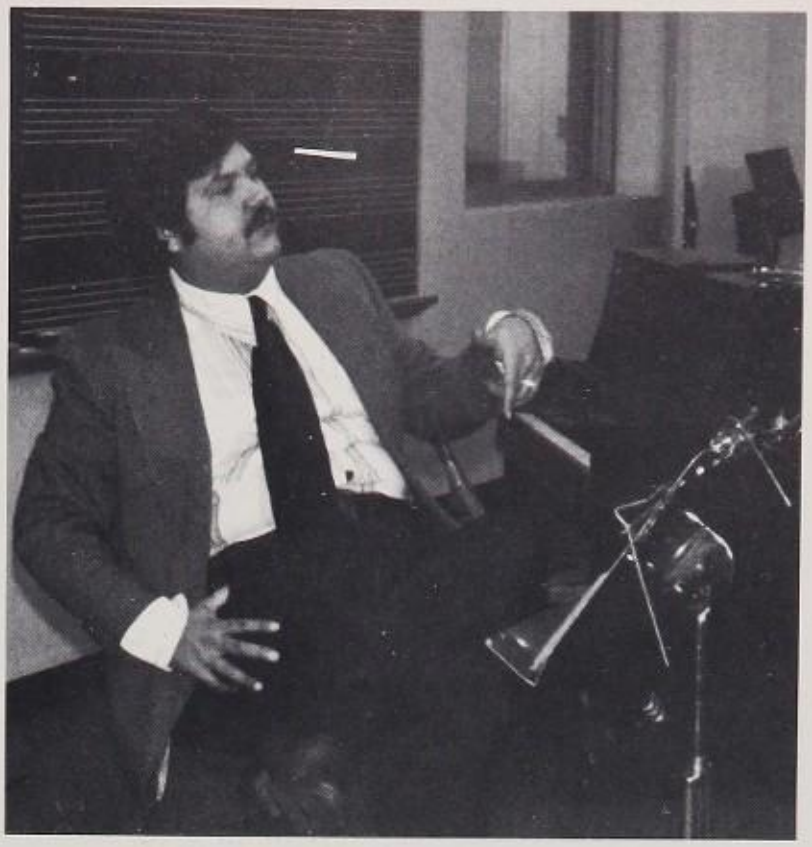
Jackson Connection



Two of this years new faculty members were Miss Linda Jackson and Mr. Earl Jackson. Although both have identical last names, they're quite different in a few ways.

Miss Jackson teaches ninth, tenth, and twelvth grade English classes. A graduate of Brigham Young University, she feels that teaching high school is not an easy task. She loves the outdoors and one of her many hobbies is building log cabins, which she does during vacations.

Mr. Earl Jackson teaches both Intermediate and Advanced Band. His leadership has made it possible for the Washington-Lee Marching Band to accomplish goals such as winning first place in the Virginia District Competition.

And what connection do the Jacksons have? They both have the ability to enrich their student's knowledge with good teaching techniques.

O.H.I.M.

The word Monday is synonomous with headaches, gloom, last minute papers, and various other words of despair.

For teachers this blight was multiplied by two; how would you like to walk into a room of sour-faced, grumbling, complaining students and attempt to fill their heads with knowledge?

Teachers could do one of two things: (1) not show up or (2) "face the world with a dazzling smile." Fortunately our teachers were brave little troupers, armed to defend themselves against gripes, scowls and empty seats.

"Mom"

We students were so busy thinking of our own heavy work loads that we never stopped to consider the fate of our beloved teachers. Their weeks consisted of giving tests, grading papers, teaching lessons, and sifting through endless piles of paperwork. So when Friday finally rolled around teachers were just as glad as us to leave our dear alma mater.

When their weekends were not filled with grading papers, teachers found diverse ways to relax and unwind, for instance, Mr. Brumbaugh fished in West Virginia, Mr. Coggins was always to be found in the crowd at University of Tennessee football games, Mr. Imbrescia enjoyed watching the "Waltons" and "Sesame Street" with his children, Mrs. Jeens went to various concerts at the Kennedy Center and Mrs. Baker in the Attendance Office worked with her crafts.

Whatever their form of relaxation, they always came back bright-eyed and bushy-tailed and ready to face a new week.

ORGANIZATIONS

The Yearbook Staff

Betsy Day and Jodi McCauley of Student Life.

TWO GENERALS DIRECT YEARBOOK STAFF

The 1982 yearbook staff saw many changes as compared with the previous few years. The yearbook staff was directed by two "generals," Maria Logothetis and Simone Acha. This is the first year more than one Editor-in-Chief had led the way for the Blue and Gray. Due to fewer members of the yearbook staff in 1982, the time alotted to the Blue and Gray was cut from two periods to one period. The fewer students meant that the number of people assigned to each section was fewer, which in turn made the work load fall heavier on each individual. Since there were two Editors-in-Chief, they had more time to work closer with the staff.

With budget cuts and a declining enrollment of students, W-L saw many excellent teachers "RIFed." Mrs. Click, the former yearbook sponsor, was one of those teachers. Ms. Ledyard was then called up from the ranks of the English teachers to fill the vacancy left by Mrs. Click's departure. A few people at W-L thought that yearbook was an "easy A class" but those people who felt this way and signed up for it, had a surprise coming to them! The class started off slowly; at one point Ms. Ledyard stated, "I was worried about the possibility that the yearbook was not going to come together this year," but as deadlines neared, the staff rose to the challenge of meeting them. Ms. Ledyard, to allow more time to get work in before deadlines, scheduled extra work sessions, not mandatory but very helpful, one night a week. These sessions enjoyed great success throughout the year.

The staff was very inexperienced, having to turn to Maria & Simone, and the few other experienced individuals. These few veterans helped set a good example for the rest of the class to follow. Chris Mann, a veteran working on the Senior section, said, "I think it's important to have several experienced members on the staff to help out the first year people who need advice and help meeting their deadlines. The success that the 1982 yearbook shared hopefully might serve as a foundation from which to build on for many years to come at Washington-Lee.

Art Editor Kim Sever and Wendy Lynch of the Sophomore section, killing time.

Chris Mann thinks it over.

Organization's Trav Hoagland and Suzi Dralle taking a much needed break.

Photographers Mickey Sood, Tood Delahanty, Scott Mudd, and Eric Tasso.

Debbie,

I want your body. I say we go out right after graduation and hunt in your van and start it rockin. I will see you at the beach hopefully and we'll go swimmin or something & skinny dippin good luck on the governmnet final.

Your ever loving brother 10/30/83

PENMAN

Few high schools even have a literary art magazine, let alone an award winning one like the PENMAN of Washington-Lee. The staff consists of seniors interested in literary art, and they meet one period a day to select from the submitted articles those which they feel deserve to be a part of the two published issues. The magazine is published in the winter and in the spring, and the issues contain poetry, fictional stories, reports, essays, and reviews.

In order to fund the magazine, the staff members sell not only ads but their famous "Penman Popcorn" at sport"s events, and also after school.

All material contained in the PENMAN is submitted by students of Washington-Lee, and is either accepted by the staff, or criticized and sent back with suggestions toward improvement. Each issue then contains work contributed by both the PENMAN staff and the student body.

For the past five years PENMAN has consistently been judged Trophy class, the highest literary award, by the Virginia High School League.

CROSSED SABRES

Washington-Lee High School, Arlington 22201

The knock comes upon your third period classroom door. A stack of papers is handed to your third period teacher — It's the next issue of the CROSSED SABRES. Often you were made to wait for the end of class before you could receive your copy, but always you were eager to get your hands on one. The CROSSED SABRES staff of 1981-82, under the leadership of co-editors Kelly Pippen and Leslie Aun, strove to bring to you the best paper that they could produce.

The paper, which covered many topics from sports to opinions, was completely produced by the members of the staff, under the eye of Mrs. Bassler, their sponsor. The only step that the staff was not connected with was the printing, which was done by The Northern Virginia Sun. The many members of the staff learned much about journalism in the production of the CROSSED SABRES, including the necessity of working together at deadline time. They got as much of a kick out of putting it together as the students got out of reading it. The highlight of the year was the 50th Anniversary Edition, published in January. The excellence of writing in the 1981-82 issues of CROSSED SABRES should merit them a Trophy Class evaluation by the Virginia High School League once again.

SCA: The Students' Choice

Early in September candidates started running for positions in the S.C.A. Posters covered the halls of W-L, each conveying a message to the student body. After speeches were heard and the last ballot cast 14 people were chosen to represent their classes on the Student Council. Many were old hands at it but some experienced their first elected position at Washington-Lee.

For those elected, twice a week lunchtime was not all fun and games; it was a time for planning. Among the activities the S.C.A. organized were the bloodmobile and the Thanksgiving food drives. They planned the homecoming activities, and all assemblies during the year, including the Christmas and Thanksgiving assemblies which were enjoyed immensely.

KEY CLUB OPENS DIFFERENT DOORS.

There were many different clubs at W-L, providing a vast range of activities and services, but the Key Club was the club that stood out for its service and dedication to both the school and the surrounding community. The Key Club is affiliated with the Arlington Kiwanis. Many fund raising drives occured under their supervision. A Bowl-a-Thon and an Oyster Roast were held to benefit non-profit organizations like Cystic Fibrosis and the American Heart Association. Money was also raised for clubs that needed financial aid.

Key Club president Dora Hardman proudly states, "We built up membership from 10 to 25 active members." She also exclaims, "The club is a lot of fun." Mrs. Jeens was the sponsor and they met in her room every Wednesday. The people in charge were President Dora Hardman, Vice-President Isabel Samares, Secretary Katherine Boller, and Libby Weber, Treasurer.

IT'S ACADEMIC!

Every year W-L is invited to participate in a local contest on Channel 4's quiz show "It's Academic." This gives schools the chance to compete head to head with other schools throughout the Metro area. Even though they did not win it this year the team was strong, with Tim Ingrassia, Janet Swisher, Jeff Mellor, and alternates Mark Magee, Jeff Adams, and Jamie Hunter. The sponsors were Mr. Englishman and Mrs. Nester.

Are you sure you want that answer — Janet Swisher, Tim Ingrassia, and Jeff Mellor.

Janet Swisher is proud of her answer.

The sponsors of the It's Academic Team, Mrs. Nester and Mr. Englishman, join the gang.

The It's Academic Team — Janet Swisher, Tim Ingrassia, and Jeff Mellor.

Steve Tryon explains a meet to new members.

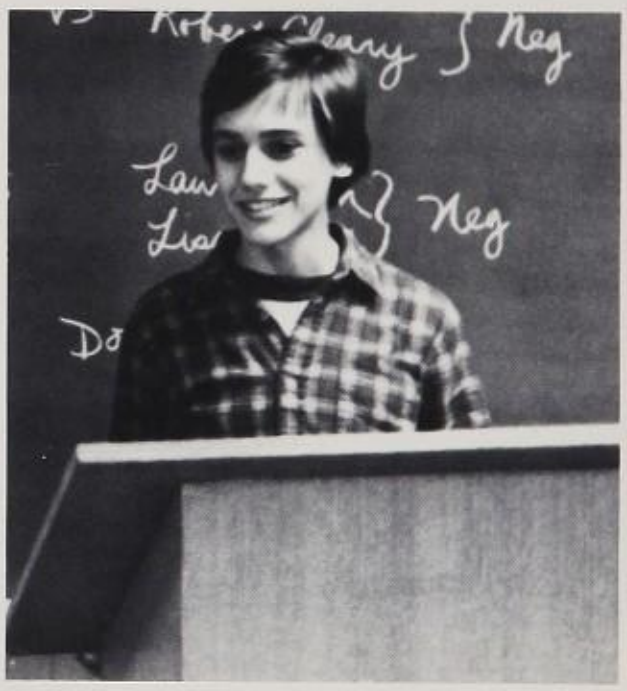
Jamie Hunter researches his topic.

THAT'S DEBATABLE

The Debate team provides participants with the unique opportunity to use their arguing skills against other students from schools all over the area. Many days were spent researching the topic: Should the government establish minimum education standards for schools in the U.S.? The team, which was larger than previous years, had a good year.

In debate there are two teams, consisting of 2 people; one side is negative, the other is affirmative. Both argue about a topic that they have researched beforehand. The winning team is the team which convinces the judge to agree with their side of the argument.

As Steve Tryon puts it, "The debating skills developed by competing with others help develop arguing skills that would be useful in a political career, or just arguing a point with a good friend."



Eric Rosenberg waits his turn to make a point.

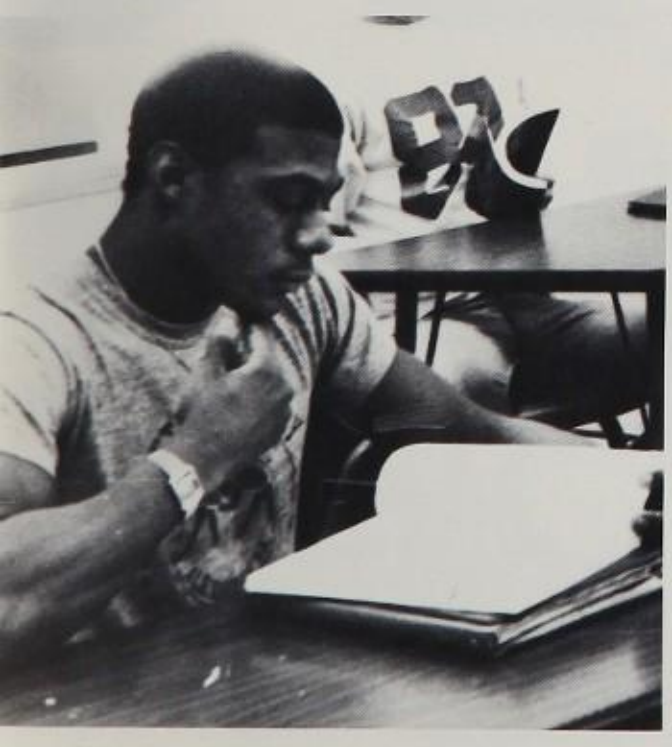
D.E.: FUTURE PROFESSIONALS

People who are in Distributive Ed get a unique chance to combine training with on the job experience in the fashion industry field. The organization, sponsored by Mrs. Hargraves, is divided into two groups, or classes: one Distributive Education and the other Fashion Merchandising. Events included a planned trip to New York in March, where they visited a fashion magazine and went to a fashion outlet. Also a trip to Virginia Commonwealth University was taken. The members listened to speakers and watched a fashion show. While they were in Richmond a trip to the state fair provided them with something to do in their leisure time. Funds were raised by an M&M drive and by the sale of Christmas ornaments. Jodi McCauley said, "If you plan on going into fashion merchandising as a career, it is a great experience. You learn how to be a professional salesperson."



Fred Struthers studies for a promising future.

F.B.L.A. — Leaders of Tomorrow

Future Business Leaders of America is for the student who might be interested in some kind of business after high school or college. Membership is made up of students taking a business course who wish to join the club.

Officers were elected at the beginning of the year. Each member is assigned to a committee, and each committee took on different assignments. They met about once a month during classtime. If a special event was coming up, such as the Christmas bazaar where F.B.L.A. sold baked goods, a special meeting was called. Erick Franklin explains, "The purpose of F.B.L.A. is to promote business leadership." Mr. Greene sponsored the future business leaders.

LEARN TO EARN

Vocational Office Training is a valuable learning experience the students get from the business world. The program is offered to students with salable business skills and is considered to be the apex of all business courses. Students were given jobs as long as they did the actual interview themselves, and at the end of the year were given three credits for the course. There were approximately twenty-eight students involved with the program, each having their own individual after-school jobs. When asked about what students acquired from the program, sponsor Mr. Greene stated, "students earn while they learn."

Ski Club Doesn't Make It To The Slopes

Although the Ski Club did not go on any trips during the year, its members were made up of about 80 slope lovers. There was a lot of snow in the winter of 1981-82 and many Washington-Lee ski lovers went on their own trips to the area resorts. The snow was there but the conditions needed for pleasant skiing were almost non-existent, as we experienced one of the coldest winters in modern history.

Meetings were held when announced by sponsor Mr. Mark Hart and President Scott Olmsted. Plans for trips were discussed but they never materialized. These meetings presented students who enjoyed skiing with the opportunity to get together and talk about their personal blunders and their expertise in the art of skiing. Membership dues were five dollars.

"Le Club de Francais a une annee fantastique"

The 1981-1982 French Club had a different twist from those of years past. Larger than ever before, it included students from all French classes at W-L, not just those from the classes of sponsor Madame Beaston.

The club engaged in many rewarding experiences, including Christmas and Mardi Gras parties, raffling off a Bouche de Noel, a famous French desert, at the Holiday bazaar, and an M&M sale. The money from the candy sale was donated to Children's Village, a home for kids suffering from child abuse. "The best thing about the club is that it makes me feel good seeing people willing to help others," said Madame Beaston.

All in all, the French club had what students of the language would call "une annee fantastique", that is, a GREAT YEAR!!!!!

Students Say They Love German

The German Club enjoyed another successful year. Under President Sandy Bullock, the club engaged in such activities as the Holiday Bazaar, celebrating German holidays, and numerous social gatherings. The purpose of the club was to study the things that make up Germany — that is, the people and culture. "It's interesting studying the lifestyle of the Germans. They are very proud people, and their customs are somewhat different compared to ours," said Sandy.

International Club Bringing People Together

For over four years the International Club has proven itself successful through determination and hard work. This year's club certainly is no different. Besides having experienced officers, the club had 42 members. The sponsors were Miss Mangan, Mrs. Anderson, and Miss Sheehy.

"The club is quite an experience; you get to know a lot of people from other countries and you have fun at the same time," stated Karena Mantilla. The Club participated at the Christmas Bazaar and earned $148.00. Exhibits as well as foods from different countries were sold.

An International Club Week was set up to encourage other students to get involved with the club. Exhibits were shown and an assembly was held which was televised. As was expected, the week came to a successful end with the help of the club's members and sponsors.

We can all be proud of this club. We wish them more success in the future.

Students Keep Their Culture Alive

The Vietnam Club showed itself to be one of the most unique groups at W-L. Students from Vietnam composed the club which engaged in many activities. The club began the year doing orientations for new students, then they celebrated Tet, the Vietnamese new year. Other activities included museum trips, food sales at the Bazaar, performing at International Night, and playing soccer against clubs from other high schools. Diem Pham, president of the club, said, "The club is a great opportunity to learn about the U.S. and about the culture of Vietnam."

Science Club Does Their Research

The '81-'82 Science Club proved to be not only interesting but helpful to its members at the same time. The club spent much of the year organizing the science fair, working on projects for competition, and looking into science-related careers. The group sponsored the school fair, then sent winners onto regional, state, and national competitions. Members of the club competed for honors at a number of competitions including the Virginia Junior Academy of Science, the Washington Junior Academy of Science, and a national writing contest.

Advisor Mrs. Varn said, "We try to sponsor students in a well-rounded program which includes the funding, business, and research aspects of science. We try to get them into science or science-supported fields." The club ended the year with its annual social gathering.

Star-Gazers

Do you observe heavenly bodies? If so, you could have been in the W-L Astronomy Club this year. These students met in the Planetarium after school to learn about the universe. They went out at night to observe the stars and formations in the sky.

One of the students commented, "The club is a lot of fun. We learn a lot about the atmosphere and you meet a lot of really nice people."

Bowling Club Strikes Again

Last year was the first year for the Washington-Lee Bowling Club, and it was continued this year because of its popularity. The sponsor was Mr. Knott. They met every Wednesday after school at Skor-Mor Bowling Alley. It gave the bowlers a chance to bowl against one another. When asked if he liked the club, Dan Gillenwater replied, "I'm glad that W-L had this club, because it gave the students a chance to practice and compete with one another." The high scorer this year was Mike Bornstein with a 210.

Stage Crew Makes It Possible

The lights were dimmed, the stage set, a spotlight appeared — these were all things we took for granted while watching plays or other events in the auditorium. There was one group, however, who did not have a chance to overlook anything. These students were, of course, the stage crew. They were divided into groups to do different jobs to handle concerts, drama productions, and assemblies. Along with lighting, the crew helped prepare the set. Members included Peter Shogren, Dan Gillenwater, Andrew Peterson, David Nickerson, and Brenda Tirabassi. Each were responsible for making events in the auditorium as enjoyable as possible.

Snappy People

The Photography Club was a group of students who took pictures, processed film and printed their negatives. They devoted many after school hours to capturing the school-year in pictures. This year's club consisted of Todd Delahanty, Scott Mudd, Mickey Sood, and Eric Tasso, all of which were on the Blue & Gray staff. President Todd Delahanty commented on the demanded supply of photos by exclaiming, "give me time!"

Voices From Above

Who were those strange voices that came from above each day to interrupt your class? Part of the time it was soft-talking Mark Magee. But as soon as we were used to hearing Mark another voice was heard. Each week brought a new experience for the close listeners.

In the afternoon it was Eric Rosenberg with his calm, unique way of presenting the evening activities, and Mike Manners who kept us informed of the week's happenings.

These voices were strange, but often gave us comic relief from our classwork.

Junior, Scarlett Cressel, commented, "Steve Tryon added new life to the morning announcements."

Faithful Followers

Every week the members of the Bible club got together for a meeting with sponsor, Mr. Bloomingburg. At the meeting they sang, prayed, and studied lessons. From time to time guest speakers came and shared their time with the students. They also gathered for a short prayer meeting every weekday morning. The club went to McIntyre's Cabin in Front, Royal, Virginia, for a short retreat. Kim Tancredi was President, Gill Harvey Vice-President, and He Young Kim was Secretary-Treasurer.

Football Pep Club

The school is virtually empty, but there are a few dedicated people left. These people are the Football Pep Club, if it is a Thursday night in the fall. They are busy decorating lockers and taping up candy, getting ready for Friday and the big game that night. The club supplies all of their own candy, which is bought at a discount from a warehouse. Every year the club gets wide support and is greatly appreciated by the football team.

Soccer Pep Club

Interest in Soccer in the area has prompted a growth in the number of people following it. The Soccer Pep club was in its second year and as support goes it could have been its fifteenth. The club decorated lockers on Tuesday nights. A person was assigned a member of the team and supported that player throughout the course of the season. Jasmin Jao said, "I truly believe the decorating of lockers affects the outcome of the games by giving the players an emotional uplift." The interest in the club should be even stronger next year.

Drill Team has a Bright New Outlook!

With the addition of their new metallic pom poms and sweaters, the drill team added flash and style to the halftime show. These new auxillaries cost the drill team close to $1,500 which they paid for with such money-makers as selling candy, stationary, and conducting a raffle. Said their sponsor, Mrs. Frankel, "If I never see another box of candy I'll be happy!"

What became one of the most important aspects of this year's drill team was that the team was incorporated into the marching band and this combination spelled success. In the competition Starplex held at the D.C. Armory, the drill team and Marching band won the Virginia trophy and second place overall out of fifteen bands. Other competitions included a trip to the University of Maryland.

In order for these girls to achieve the precision necessary in a drill team, they had to attend practices, drill team camp, and give up their sixth period class. "The highlight of this year," said Krista Simms, "was sitting in a puddle at homecoming." Yes, rain or shine, the drill team was adding color and spirit to Washington-Lee.

'Winners'

The 1981-82 marching Generals showed their talents throughout the year. The band members devoted Tuesday and Thursday afternoons to practice, and sixth period during the week. The hard work and long hours began to pay off; the Generals placed first among Virginia's marching bands. Then in a tri-state competition the band came in second, ahead of the nationally acclaimed Cardoza band, which performed in the 1980 Rose Bowl parade. After their great success, the Generals were asked to perform for White House Press Secretary James Brady's homecoming. Brady was critically wounded March 30, 1981, when an attempt on President Reagan's life occured. When asked how she felt about performing for such a prestigous occasion, Laura Powers replied, "We were honored and pleased to have been invited to play for Mr. Brady's release from the hospital." The band proved the old saying, "Practice makes perfect," and made 1981-82 a very memorable year at Washington-Lee.

Symphonic Band Swings With New Director and New Sound

The Symphonic Band enjoyed one of its best years ever, under the guidance of new director Earl Jackson, a professional musician and internationally acclaimed saxophone player.

President Laura Powers said, "Playing under Mr. Jackson has been a great experience. He adds a new dimension to the band; listening to his many varied experiences makes class more interesting and makes the student want to learn more."

"I've really enjoyed working with these kids," said Mr. Jackson, "I feel we have the basis for a very good band."

Among the concerts played throughout the year were a Holiday Food Drive sponsored by First Lady Nancy Reagan, seasonal performances for the school, International Night, the opening of the Cherry Blossom Festival, and a spring trip to Hershey Park, Pennsylvania.

Several orchestra members show the concentration that it takes to be an accomplished musician.

Orchestra — No Strings Attached

The 1981-1982 Orchestra lived up to its great reputation. Under the direction of Mr. Harvey Krasney, the orchestra displayed their talents at a number of events, including Thanksgiving, Winter, and Spring concerts, the district music festival, and trips to the intermediate and elementary schools. Although smaller than in previous years, the orchestra faired well in the district competition, and proved to be very entertaining in its school concerts. In addition to these performances, the orchestra also played for the spring musical "Pajama Game".

A select few of the orchestra made up the Chamber Music Ensemble. Composed of Mary Thomasson, Heidi von Bernewitz, Sherita Johnson, Nadine Johnson, and He Young Kim, the group played at special functions when a smaller ensemble was desired. The members are all ones who excel at their particular instrument.

JAZZING IT UP!

Where is that music coming from? Who is playing it? These were some of the questions asked on occasional Friday mornings. The answers to these questions are 1) the music was coming from the commons and 2) the newly formed Jazz Ensemble was performing the music under the direction of Earl Jackson.

The ensemble had twenty-seven members ranging from those who played saxaphone to those who played violins that had been electrified. The group practiced after school on Tuesdays and Thursdays and on Wednesday nights. They performed at assemblies, concerts and other various preformances.

Among the many numbers performed were "Rocky's Theme", "Son Mar", "Come Sail Away", and "Dreamsville". They played a variety of music from contempory to jazz.

The members of the Jazz Ensemble seemed really enthusiastic about the addition of the group. Laura Powers was "really proud of the way the band was coming along this year"; and Diane Dunlap wished she had a longer opportunity to be under the direction of Mr. Jackson.

When asked what the jazz ensemble did while performing David Sundstrom replied, "we jam".

Scott Olmsted believes that in a few years the ensemble will become the best band in jazz.

While many didn't know exactly what the Jazz Ensemble was at the beginning of the year, the student population soon found out. The group became a new outlet for the enthusiasm of the school.

The Choir Ensemble

For students seeking to improve their musical background, acceptance into the choir was a vital instrument in honing their musical skills. Choir is a course offered to any student having had some sort of musical background and whose members are chosen from among many who tried out for the course.

The Choir performed concerts in such places as the National Cathedral, Woodies in Seven Corners, and participated at an Annual Christmas Concert. But a trip to Walt Disney World in Orlando, Florida, was the most unique experience for the whole group. Fund drives, which included the selling of candies, Christmas ornaments and candles, were established to raise money for the trip's expenses. The trip, which was taken after Christmas, proved itself a success with the help of President Lori Day, Vice President Chris Russell, and the singers themselves.

Under the direction of Miss Parr and with the group's voices in unison, we can all say that this year's Choir certainly was a harmonious one.

Keeping In Tune With The Chorus

Under the direction of Miss Parr, the Chorus met everyday during third period to lift their voices in joyous exaltation. Chorus is a full year course offering a full credit to individuals taking it. Unlike the Choir, try-outs are not held for selection of members. All a student has to do is sign up to be eligible for the class. This year's Chorus was headed by sponsor Miss Parr, president Julie Rangeen, and vice-president Ann Raines.

The Chorus performed at junior high schools: Swanson, Kenmore, Thomas Jefferson. They also performed at area shopping centers and at charitable events such as the District of Columbia's Christmas food drive. All twenty-five members kept themselves busy indeed!

To Sing Is

Seventeen seniors joined together and lifted their voices in harmony to form this year's Washington-Lee Madrigals. The elected officers were Barrie Britton, president; Donna Lekang; secretary; Mark Magee, treasurer; Lori Welker, librarian; Steve Elfers, historian, and Heidi Von Bernwitz, student director. Midway through the year the student director, Heidi Von Bernwitz, went to Boston University and finished high school by correspondance. Steve Elfers took the place of student director.

This corps of officers did a fantastic job of organizing and planning places for the group to sing. It may sound like a lot of fun, but it also includes a lot of work and a tiring schedule. They have visited many different places ranging from nursing homes to bazaars to country clubs.

Woody Allen's "Don't Drink the Water" was staged by the Drama department in November and was enjoyed by all.

Seniors Scott Sowers and Jamie Hunter headed a small cast which featured strong performances by Kim Tancredi as Marion Hollander, Lisa Parker as her flirtatious daughter, Steve Tryon as a Communist agent, Chris Russell, a fugitive priest, and Frances Fortna as a domineering secretary.

The set and the special effects added a lot to the overall effectiveness of the production. At one point a "bomb" was tossed onto the set. When Jamie Hunter, who played Alex Magee, tossed the bomb out the window, the "explosion" added a touch of reality to the action. Chris Russell's magic act — complete with a live rabbit — also contributed to the enjoyment of the play.

A major production such as "Don't Drink the Water" required a lot of time and effort. The Blue and Gray commends Mrs. Filpi and all cast and crew members.

A magic moment between Sid (Charlie Smith) and Babe (Kim Tancredi).

Factory workers Sean Murphy and Elisa Talbott rest after a hard day of work.

Pajama Game Is Not A Sleeper

The 1981-82 drama department's spring musical, Pajama Game was a huge success for all participants. It took place on March 19, 20, 26, and 27. Contributors to the musical included actors, singers, musicians and dancers who worked hard hours after school in an effort to perfect their presentation.

The story involved a pajama factory owner who fell in love with the head of a worker force trying to increase wages to seven and a half cents per hour.

Gladys (Lori Day) daydreams about Hines (Steve Tryon).

Prez (James Doll) asks Mae (Charlene Donald) to take a walk in the woods.

Dancers Jenny Kyle and Culver Fortha rolick at the picnic.

Sid (Charlie Smith) and Gladys (Lori Day) discuss an office problem.

The Man Who Came To Dinner

Mrs. Filpi's sixth period class succeeded in displaying their rare talent by performing, "The Man Who Came to Dinner".

The story begins when a famous television personality, Sheridan Whiteside, (Scott Sowers) slips on the ice only 2 weeks before Christmas at the home of Mr. & Mrs. Earnest Stanley (Kevin Horner and Sandy Bullock).

The story includes a lovesick secretary (Frances Fortna), a slinky T.V. actress (Lori Day), a sweet-talking song-writer (Steve Tryon), a cock-roach crazed scientist (Jeff Adams) and an all-around clown-comedian (Andy Pang) who helped create a hectic holiday.

As it turns out, the doctor (Pedro Fernandez) has read the wrong X-rays and there is absolutely nothing wrong with Mr. Whiteside. He is asked to leave by Mr. Stanley, but Whiteside does not appreciate his threats of being thrown out and faces Mr. Stanley with the news that his sister, Harriet, (Susan Wray) is a schizophrenic and she has murdered her parents.

In the end, Maggie gets her man, The Egyptians get Lorraine, the penguins get Miss Preen and Whiteside gets to leave — or does he? As he proceeds out the door he slips and falls, again!

Debbie,

Well, you foxy-three we've done it. We're made through four years of high-school at W-L, and more of an accomplishment - one great (?!?) season of crew. What a season. School was O.K. Not thrilling, though. Senior skip day was a blast. (sorry about your speakers) But alas, all that ended with the beginning of the crew season. we had a great time, though, all that beautiful weather over easter break (ha). Then, of course, came the best day of all my B-day. Yuck. I hope I never have a day like that again. On to better memories - "The Spasmatics" God were we great! All & all it was a great year! Better ones to come. Have a blast this summer! And please keep in touch. love.

WASHINGTON-LEE
GENERALS

Debbie,

What a hell of a year this has been. Have you been locked in any basements lately? (ha, ha!) Those were some pretty wild times. And believe me we've had quite a few great times. Some of which we won't mention. I really hope things work out for you and you know who. (that is if you want them to!) Don't be a stranger when you're gone, come back and see us. Have one wild and crazy summer. Be good and atleast try and stay out of trouble!

Take care.

Love ya.
Laurie

Keep smiling :)

VARSITY FOOTBALL
The Generals are Impressive

This season, W-L students witnessed a vastly improved General team make a run in District title contention. The Generals had a shot for the title going into the eighth game against Madison.

There were many highlights to this exciting season. Remember the game against South Lakes, who was rated as the 12th best team in the Washington-Metro area? The Generals came from behind in the 4th quarter and tied South Lakes 14-14. W-L also had two very dramatic games in a row against Langley and McLean. The host Generals came from behind to the jubilation of the home crowd. The W-L fans also witnessed the Generals onslaught against hopeless Marshall.

Some individuals received special praise. After the McLean game, Mike Atherton was named the Arlington Journal's Great Falls District player of the week.

The 1981 Generals were certainly a team to remember. As one player said, "We always gave it our all and never quit. We played hard and hustled every game down to the last second on the scoreboard." That statement reflects the character of the whole team.

J.V. FOOTBALL
W-L Wins Two

Watching a Junior Varsity game on Thursday night became very appealing to many General fans this season. The J.V. team offered a lot of excitement for fans to enjoy.

The J.V. triumphed over Langley and Herndon. The Langley game was won with a score of 2-0 after Rick Hollingsworth sacked the Langley quarterback in the end zone for a safety. The W-L defense had a terrific game and held host Langley to give the Generals their second win of the season.

The J.V. Generals were a very spirited team. When asked of this season's highlight, safety Tom Perdy modestly replied, "My two interceptions were the best part of the season for me." The members of the J.V. team look to be a promising part of future General gridiron conquests.

The J.V. players look on at a pep rally.

FRESHMEN FOOTBALL
Freshmen Win Big

This year W-L experienced a surprising first. This is the first year that a freshman team had a winning record. The successful season was a pleasant surprise for many General fans. When asked of the season's highlights, coach Mark Hart replied, "Our first win against Herndon. The victory really got the team going." The freshmen finished up the year with an excellent 4-2-1 record.

Indications of next year's team look very promising. By the time they are on the Varsity squad, the Generals could be the district contenders. Coach Hart commented that they are, "The most talented freshmen group to come to W-L." If he is right, future glory days for the Generals could be a reality.

VARSITY CHEERLEADERS
Cheer the troops to victory!

The Varsity Cheerleaders expressed school spirit and pride this season over and beyond the call of duty. Whenever the team needed a lift, the cheerleaders were there supplying them with extra enthusiasm needed for victory. They cheered at all of the games and decorated the players' lockers. To be a cheerleader, the girls had to sacrifice a lot of time, money, and energy. But the girls learned to fit everything into their schedule and that is to their credit.

The Cheerleaders spent in excess of one hundred dollars on items such as jackets, pom-poms, sweaters, and shoes. But mostly, they spent a lot of energy practicing their cheers, and keeping up with their hectic schedule. The whole squad worked hard, but they also had a lot of fun doing it. These cheerleaders were a fine example of school spirit and pride.

J.V. CHEERLEADERS
Spirit Bound

This year's J.V. cheerleaders showed an immense amount of enthusiasm and school spirit. They had to because cheerleading is not all fun and games — it involves a lot of hard work. The girls cheered at the wrestling matches and all of the football, basketball, and soccer games. The J.V. girls oftentimes practiced in the mornings before school started. On Wednesday afternoons, they busied themselves by decorating the lockers of the J.V. players. And as if that was not enough, they also had to sell programs at the varsity games. Pam Holt summed it up best when she said, "Cheerleading was a lot of work, but all the fun we had was well worth the effort."

We know what they're smiling about.

FRESHMEN CHEERLEADERS Spirit Shows

The freshman cheerleaders showed their spirit this year by cheering at various athletic events such as football, basketball, wrestling, and soccer. The girls practiced mornings in the gym. They touched up old routines and learned new ones. With the help of their sponsor, Mrs. Causey, the team became a very proficient group. The cheerleaders decorated the lockers of the freshman football team members and helped decorate the school on game days. The girls represented their class very well this year. Thanks for all you did!

VARSITY BOYS SOCCER
Takes third in the Metro Soccer League

Wednesday nights, during the fall, the W-L Stadium came alive. No, it was not football, it was soccer that lighted up the night. Every Wednesday the Varsity Soccer Team put on a show. The Generals would move up the field with Satit Simsuan, Rudy Gutierrez, and Ramon Paredes passing the ball around their opponents, backed up by their strong defense which consisted of Bashar Itraish, Erik Grotos, Matt Robbins, and Neil Richardson. When the ball did break through the defense there was Oswaldo Salinas, the goalie.

Coach Norwood commented on the team's defense by saying, "When things got hectic out there we always could rely on Neil Richardson to hang in there and turn things around." Neil was named the most valuable player, in this, his senior year. Bashar Itraish was voted the most improved player, and will be returning next year. To keep the team strong, juniors Larry Gutierrez and Dennis Villagomez will be back. The Generals' season picked up near the end. In one of their last games they played Yorktown and narrowly lost in the second over time. But not to be outdone, the team came back in the Metro Tournament and beat Yorktown. They also tied O'Connell 2-2 and defeated heavily favored Gonzaga.

As a sport growing in popularity, soccer had many supporters. There were many fans who attended the games. The team was also treated to the goodies of the Soccer Pep Club and was honored at the first Pep Rally of the year. Robert Whitson said, "When you know that people are supporting you, you always try to play your best. That's why it's so great when people come to our games."

The departing seniors agreed that they had a good season. There were some games that they wished that they could have played over again. The games they won, they wanted to keep because there was always something different that they did which made them win. This was the season that the team used its abilities to its greatest advantage.

The Generals rush to clear the ball!

J.V. BOYS SOCCER
End the season with a win

This was the year that the Junior Varsity team got it together. The returning sophomores showed their true skills. Culver Fortna and Jaime Carrazana ran circles around the opposing team. Eric Shank helped the team to a winning season by being a leading goal scorer. Ian Jones, Nuh Tekman, and Chris Venuto once again showed that they knew how to work as a team to score goals.

Khoa Tran, the Junior Varsity goalie, held his own during the season. He warded off hard opponents such as Yorktown and Bullis Prep. "It was a hard season, but the other guys helped out all the time, so I didn't feel the pressure as much," said Tran about the season.

In the last game of the season, the team played dreaded Yorktown. The game was tied 2-2 when the game went into overtime. Coach Coggins was hoping that Nuh Tekman, who scored the first two goals in the game, would score again. In the final seconds of the overtime Eric Shank booted one in to make it 3-2. A W-L victory! What a way to end the season!

RIFLE TEAM
Right on Target

"Close and friendly" are the words that come to mind to describe the 1981-82 W-L Varsity Rifle Team. The closeness could be attributed to the fact that the team has only seven members, but the friendliness comes from the members themselves. Although if not properly handled, rifles can be dangerous, rifle seems to be the least dangerous of the W-L sports. As team member Irene Vaishvila relates, "The most dangerous thing that ever happened was when the shell ricocheted off the wall and hit the guy next to me in the face."

Being on the Rifle Team was not all play however. It takes a lot of long, hard practice hours to be a successful marksman. While most of the team members have been shooting for years, Lynette Guy, the only freshman on the team, has only been shooting for three months.

This mixture of skill and outgoing friendliness has made the Varsity Rifle Team a special one to stand out against all the others of past, present, and future.

Ted Bonner demonstrates the offhand stance.

BOYS CROSS COUNTRY
They've got what it takes!

The Boys' Cross Country team had another great season this year, winning their share of the meets. The team captured a very respectable fourth place in the Great Falls District. The Boys Cross Country team was a small team compared to last year's team, but what they lacked in numbers, they made up with spirit and skill. Training for the team was a very long and tiring task. The boys ran an average of 70 miles a week. The team members started running for this season during the early part of the summer vacation.

The most valuable team member was senior Maurice Ramirez. Maurice competed and won many of the races he ran in. The team's great drive and determination was what made them such a success. Said member Eric Tasso, "Running Cross Country takes loyalty and dedication, and luckily this was found throughout the team."

Maurice Ramirez runs for another win.

The W-L boys lead the pack.

GIRLS CROSS COUNTRY
Takes it on the run

The Girls' Cross Country team, coached by Barry Smith, had an exceptional season this year. Training for the cross country team was a very difficult task. The girls had to run anywhere from three to ten miles a day and some of them started training even before the first day of summer vacation. The team competed in invitational meets at George Mason University, University of Virginia, William and Mary, and Georgetown Prep.

Some of the outstanding runners of the team were Jessica Space, Mary McQueeny, and Valerie Blackburn. This season's girl's cross country team was dedicated to nothing but excellence. Said member Suzie Adam, "We had to train physically hard, but it was well worth it when we won."

These girls are running for their lives.

Jessica Space sets the pace.

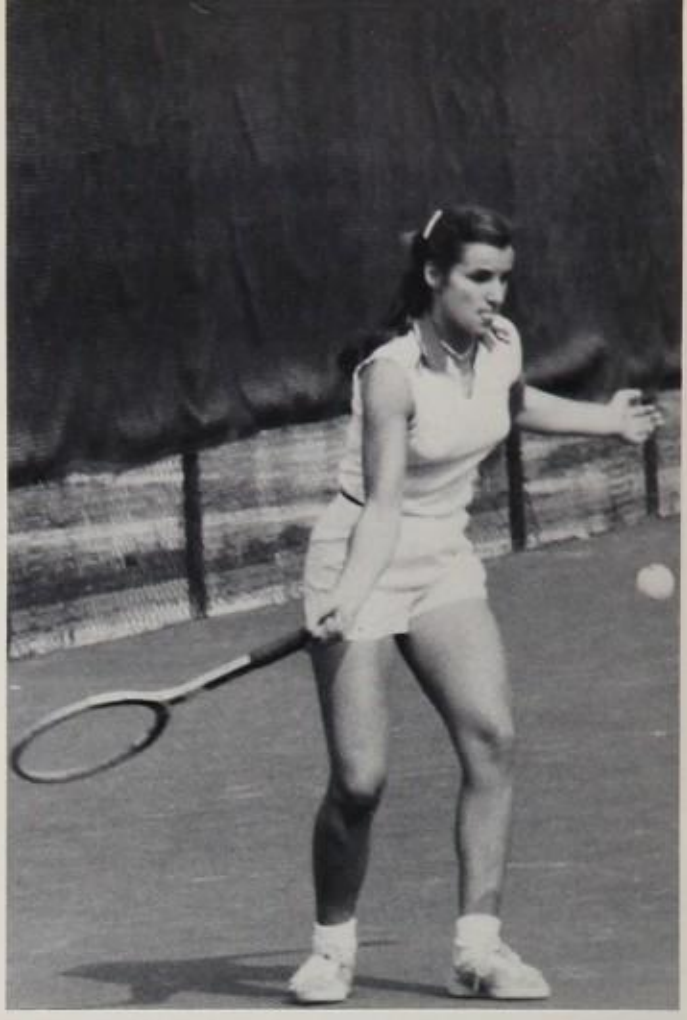
GIRLS VARSITY TENNIS
Places third in the district

The Girls' Varsity Tennis Team started their season on the right foot this year. In their first district match they defeated Madison with a 9-0 victory. They continued through their season with a fighting spirit and finished with a 6-3 win over their rivals, Yorktown. Even with racquets breaking and problems with strings the girls came out third in the district.

Their marvelous playing earned the girls new shirts and a large victory dinner. First ranked, Karen Troutman and second ranked Anna Pahno went to district in doubles. Kim and Melissa Steele also went to districts in doubles. Karen and Kim participated in the singles tournament at districts. The girls' coach, Mrs. Causey, commented on their season by saying, "They played well and gave it their all. I'm really proud of them for their dedication and determination."



The Tongue! The sign of concentration.

BOYS' VARSITY BASKETBALL
Shoot to Win

This year's Varsity basketball team was most definitely a team to cheer for and be proud of. There were several close games that the Generals won in the closing minutes. The team excelled on fast-break and they had a knack for making the big plays that would help them on to victory. The Generals defense carried them through many tough games.

Coached by Dale Bethel, the team achieved a top rating in the Great Falls District and in the Northern Virginia area. The eleven man squad consisted of five juniors and six seniors. The biggest change in this year's team was the outstanding player development since last year. This factor combined with many others made this team a winning one. Bob Casteel said it best when he commented, "Being part of a winning team is an exceptional experience because you earn respect from your school and from other teams and schools in the area." One of the most famous sports-oriented expression is the thrill of victory and agony of defeat. Thanks to the Varsity Basketball team the school as well as the team experienced the thrill of victory!

BOYS' J.V. BASKETBALL
Aims for the Future

The J.V. Basketball team experienced a successful season this year. They defeated some outstanding teams in route to their final record. The players had to devote a lot of time and effort to their sport. They had practice five days a week and through hard work they improved their skills. The team was confident, hustling, and very well organized, thanks in part to coach Reggie Harrison. "Coach Harrison was a great motivator," comments Pat Mirza. "After our first game when we did not give our best effort and ended up losing Coach Harrison got us to hustle and we were fired up for the next game where we beat Jeb Stuart," continues Pat. With a lot of spirit and a great positive attitude the J.V. Basketball players became winners.

BOYS' FRESHMEN BASKETBALL
Shooting Stars

The freshman basketball team coached by Ed Walowac had an exciting season highlighted by many close wins and a lot of extra effort on the part of the players.

The team members worked hard all week during practice and then gave an all out effort during the games. Through hard work and enthusiasm the team won a number of contests. Competition at the high school level proved to be a valuable experience. This experience will help freshmen to become a bright part of future W-L basketball teams. One player commented, "If we improve every year as well as we did this year then we ought to have a pretty good team."

VARSITY SWIMMING AND DIVING
Splashes their way to victory

The swimming and diving team enjoyed an excellent season of competition this year. The team, coached by Mary Causey and Barbara Reinwald, excelled in many of the meets. There are twenty-two events in a meet and the swimming and diving team participates in eight meets. The team practices five days a week and three hours a day. The meets were held on Fridays from two o'clock until five. The hard work of the swimming and diving team was reflected by their exceptional record.

GIRLS' VARSITY BASKETBALL
Dribbles on to success

The girls' varsity basketball team proved to be winners this year. The team's hustle and determination, and winning attitude was apparent during every game. Height, shooting, ability, and defense were key elements contributing to the team's success. The team, coached by Del Norwood, propelled themselves into district title contention. "We hustled and gave our best effort every game," one player stated.

Besides their infinite basketball skills the girls had a good mental attitude which is essential in order to become a winner.

VARSITY WRESTLING

Wrestlers Grapple with Tough Season

What does it take to be a varsity wrestler? Any wrestler will tell you it takes dedication, devotion, and plenty of hard work. All of these factors helped make excellent wrestlers and they in turn helped make a very good varsity wrestling team. The team's strong points were the middleweights who were anchored by the outstanding performances of Tony Jolivet.

James Mon, who has had years of experience in the field of wrestling, was the team's coach. During the week, the wrestlers practiced three hours a day after school, and on Wednesdays and Saturdays they had their meets.

The varsity wrestling team deserves the respect of all the students at W-L because of the athlete's unrelenting devotion to the sport.

WRESTLERS HOLD THEIR OWN

Despite the small turnout the freshman and sophomore wrestlers, coached by Mr. Mon and Mr.Patterson, had an enthusiastic season.

There are thirteen different wrestling weight classes that a meet consists of. Because of a lack of wrestlers the team had to forfeit an average of six weight classes a meet. Even with this severe handicap the team members worked very hard. Since they were part of the varsity team the younger wrestlers had to undergo the same vigorous practices the other wrestlers went through.

This wrestling team had a lot of heart and soul to compete with so few members, but they did and that is to their credit.

GIRLS' J.V. BASKETBALL

The outstanding effort put forth during every game and practice reflected the spirit and endurance of the girls' J.V. basketball team. The girls practiced five days a week and two hours a day. Coach Tom Chisnell helped the girls learn the game strategies and he helped them develop their skills and talent. All the girls worked very hard and many are hoping to be on the varsity squad in the future. With the skill and determination these girls possess, they are bound to have a talented varsity team.

INDOOR TRACK

A Team for All Seasons

The Indoor Track team had another fine season this year because of outstanding individual and team performances. The team members had to make a lot of sacrifices in order to have time for practice. The team practiced five days a week and participated in meets on Saturdays. The meets often lasted for five hours.

The team, coached by "General" Jack Walker and Barry Smith, were in the running for the title of the Great Falls District. When asked what kind of qualifications a person needs for track, Mr. Walker replied, "Not only does the individual have to have the ability to run, but also, a large amount of self-discipline is needed in order to become successful in this sport." All of the team members lived up to their coaches' expectations and found themselves to be winners.

GIRLS' GYMNASTICS Vault To New Heights

Girls' Gymnastics is one of the most demanding high school sports but it is also one of the least publicized. Gymnastics is a very demanding sport that consists of many skills used together at the same time. The girls must have timing, balance, agility, speed, strength, and precision. The team members perfect their routines during practice, which is five days a week and three hours every day. Even though their coach, Mr. Joe D'Emidio is not a teacher at W-L, there is plenty of time at practice for him to supervise and improve his team.

Through hard work and sheer devotion, the girls became the winners they so richly deserve to be.

GIRLS' CREW
Walks on Water

This year's Washington-Lee Girls' Crew team, though smaller than it was last year, was just as good. Said one member, "Even though our team was smaller, we still did our best and had a good all-around season.

The team was coached by Tom Chisnell and a new assistant coach, Tom Adams.

The girls rowed and raced at different points all along the Potomac river, and also in Philadelphia at the Stotesbury Regatta, and in Delaware at the Scholastic Nationals.

The team practiced six days a week. Their workouts included rowing, running, and many other exercises, to get them in shape to race.

Coach Tom Chisnell summed up rowing best when he said "Rowing is such a great sport because it is so competitive. In every single phase of rowing, there is competition, and since that is what sports are for, it is what makes rowing so fantastic."

Debbie,

It's finally over! Or at least for one of us it's over. The past 3 years have been special you and I have been through more than people who are "just friends", that's why next year, around this school we'll be the same even if I will be a senior. The time we've spent together has been...well it's been fun, interesting, and special. All are times like crew parties (some of those were Fabulous!), Windy Run, Dianne's, and our summer's of drinking. You are one friend I'll never forget, and I hope you keep in touch. (You better!) Last of all I won't to thank you for all the times have a great summer and Good luck (How Kong)

Love,
Brian

BOYS' CREW
One Stroke Ahead

Starting with only one returning member was only a minor setback for the Varsity First Eight, but determination and plenty of hard work pulled the team through. Practice officially started on February 10, but informal practices were held in the fall and through the winter. Spring practices, held six days a week, were demanding and strenuous, but the crew persisted.

Called crazy for their long hours, by many non-crew members, Scott Mudd justifies the extra-long hours, "Crew like any other sport, takes alot of work and experience to be good." The crew members felt that as much time and energy they put in, the reward is in the racing itself. "The reward is when you know you've pulled your best and it doesn't matter if you win or not.", explains Howard Watson.

Whatever the reason, crew has a persistently good team and good record. The races are exciting for both the rowers and the observers. Come out!

VARSITY BASEBALL
Demons of the Diamond

The Varsity Baseball team began the 1982 season by riding a crest of very high hopes. The team was picked to capture first place in the Great Falls District. W-L baseball fans enjoyed the excitement of the action-packed games. The strengths of the team were clutch hitting and iron-clad defense. The pitching was led by senior Nick Good who won last year's Most Valuable Player award. He is expected to excel again this year. The team's power hitters include Nick Good, Kenny Tapscott, and Mike Murray. The exceptional fielders are Gethin Thomas, catcher; Scott Sowers, centerfield; and Mike Murray, utility infielder. The team has a lot of experience since most of the seniors have played together for three years. The team and Coach Del Norwood have worked long and hard to reach the success they have achieved.

BOYS' OUTDOOR TRACK
Gone With The Wind

The Boys' Outdoor Track team led by Coach "General" Jack Walker, ran their way into the district title race. The team competed in many meets and invitationals. When asked what the difference was between a meet and an invitational, Coach Walker replied, "A meet is a competition between district teams whereas an invitational is a competition among many teams from various states." One of the highlights of the track season is the annual Al Harringer Relays which always take place at W-L. The one hundred teams and over one thousand competitors help make this the third largest high school track meet on the East Coast. Despite the lack of many members, the team placed representatives in the regional and state meets. Eric Tasso summed up the season best when he said, "Even though the team was small, emphasis was put on quality, not quantity." Amen to that!

GIRLS' OUTDOOR TRACK
Making Tracks

A great deal of stamina was displayed by the girls' track team in 1982. Many of the girls on the outdoor track team were carryovers from Indoor Track. Jack Walker and Mary Causey were the coaches for the team. Practice took up much of the participants' time. The girls trained hard every day from 2:30-5:00. On Tuesdays and Thursdays they competed in meets, and invitationals on Saturdays. The meets consisted of fourteen events. Competition during the year consisted of five meets and five invitationals, and one district, regional, and state meet. Jessica Space was the team's premier runner and hopeful for state champion.

GIRLS' VARSITY SOCCER
Use Their Heads

"The quality of play at W-L has greatly improved in the last few years," stated Coach Barbara Reinwald. "We have so many good players out for soccer that it is hard to choose the Varsity squad." Competition was stiff, so each girl had to try her best everyday during practic Players were watched carefully as they scrim maged and were put in positions that they we best suited for. One of the team's captain Colleen O'Day, said, "We have the skill and t talent for an excellent team, so we should have good team this year."

GIRLS' J.V. SOCCER
Learning the Kicks

Washington-Lee's Girls' Soccer team, coached by Mr. Ron Patterson had another fine season this year. The team was composed mostly of sophomores. The girls practiced five days a week and had matches during the week. The girls on the team look to have a very promising future on Varsity soccer. One member said, "We have a lot of talent on this team, and being on J.V. gives us a chance to develop it. By next year, we hope to be really good!!"

J.V. BASEBALL
W-L Scores More

The J.V. Baseball team, coached by Ed Walowac, put in many long and hard hours in order to produce a successful team. The pitching and hitting helped the team chalk up many victories. Sparked by the returning players from last year, the team showed a lot of determination and enthusiasm. The beneficial experience gained by the players will help immensely those who will go on to the varsity team next year. If the players work as hard on varsity as they did on J.V., then the 1982 varsity squad will be very good indeed.

BOYS' VARSITY TENNIS
Kings of the Court

The Boys' Varsity Tennis team, coached by Roger Coggins, had to overcome many obstacles in order to produce an enjoyable season. The main problem of the team was the loss of many starters from last year. After carefully watching his team, Coach Coggins started the best players and they performed admirably by winning many matches. The valuable experience gained this season will be a tremendous asset for next year's team. Despite this inexperience the team played very well and worked hard all year. This could have been a frustrating year, but instead the players worked hard and made the season an enjoyable one.

BOYS' GYMNASTICS Bends Over Backwards

Virtually unknown, Boys' Gymnastics is one of the hard work sports. On top of working out their routines, gymnasts must make them look easy, and graceful.

The gymnasts started practice with twenty minutes of stretching exercises, then they moved to various equipment in the room where they worked out under the supervision of Coach D'Emidio.

The boys' equipment is different from the girls'. They use the rings, the high bar and the parallel bars. There is more emphasis on arm strength than anything else.

This year's team worked hard and did well. With luck, next year's should be as good.

The Girls' Varsity Softball team, coached by Mr. Mulhern, practiced every day from 2:30 until 4:00. Though practice often started without Mr. Mulhern (due to his job at Glebe Elementary) it was no less intense or serious. The team worked together like a close knit family to ensure strong team ties. This enabled the varsity team to approach every game with confidence and enthusiasm.

GIRLS' J.V. SOFTBALL
Hit and Run Excitement

This year's Junior Varsity softball team was coached by Ms. Mays. It was her first year coaching a softball team, but enjoying the game, she tackled the new challenge. When asked why she wanted to coach, she replied, "I wanted to be more involved with the school and its students." The girls were enthusiastic about having Ms. Mays as their coach and were eager to show her their expertise at the game. The hours of practice were the same as the Varsity team, from 2:30 until 4:00, with Ms. Mays starting the practice for both teams.

VARSITY GOLF

Richard Meek and Channing Patton are two young swingers.

The varsity golf team was up to par this year by placing very well in many important area tournaments. Their practices and several matches took place at the Washington Golf and Country Club and at Pinecrest Golf Course. The team participated in nine matches plus the districts, and if they were exceptionally good the golfers entered the regionals and then the state tournament. The coaches, Tony Dene and Tom Knott helped the team members develop their golfing skills and their match strategies. The team putted their way to victory many times this season.

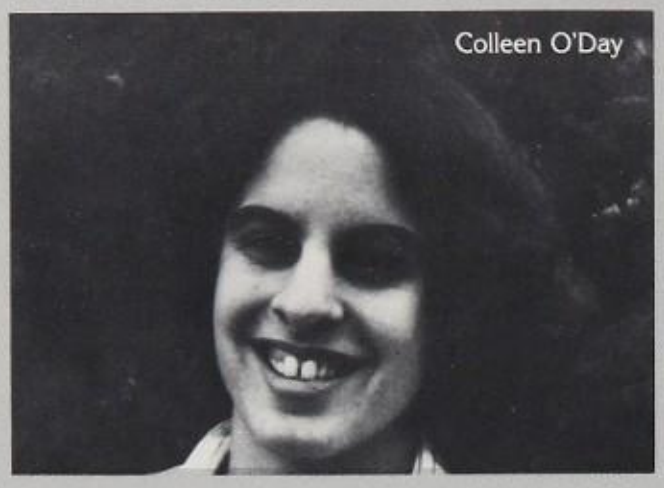
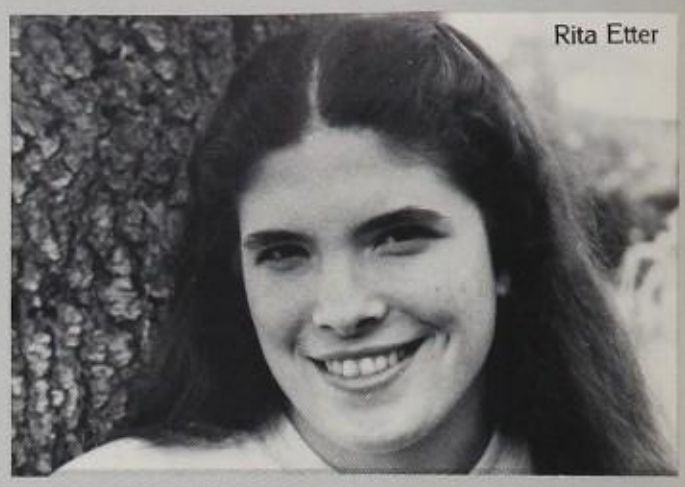
A TRIBUTE TO OUTSTANDING SENIOR FEMALE ATHLETES

Lynn Monson



Colleen O'Day



Rita Etter

Janet Gills, Susan Foxwell, Helen Johnson

The Blue and Gray staff of 1981-1982 would like to dedicate this page to all of Washington-Lee's outstanding senior female athletes. The girls pictured, and many more, have helped to bring Washington-Lee's women's athletics up to a very high level of competition. Thanks to all of the girls who helped achieve this through their hard work and dedication. Congratulations, girls!

DEBBIE-

hi - how are ya? I am so glad that I met you and became friends. You are one crazy girl and I'll never forget ya. I always remember your parties!! I am real glad I came to them. Now you know for real that I have no tolerance for alcohol. I will admit that dice is a challenging game and I haven't forgotten it yet. Even though Steve did what he did - that's okay. I didn't die. Then Barbara and I went to get donuts the next morning. At least I lived through it. Senior Skip Day was great - from what el remember. I do believe I consumed quite a good amount of alcohol. I will never forget the wild times in 4th + 5th. AEM class was wild. How about when we Skipped and drank or ate at McDonalds. Then there was the "BOY IN THE PARK." By the way, he just got married. Wild or what. el want to wish you all the luck in the world with mark or whom ever. I am sorry to See things end the way they did. (w/ Mark) I am glad that ya listened to me and all of my problems. el want to thank ya very much. You are really great. Good luck with college and GUTS!

Since Jim and el are going to the Beach, maybe we'll bump into each other.. Have a great summer. el really can't think of much to say. el'm all burned out trying to think of past experiences. el think you know - all of our good times, bad times, problems, laughs, and tears. So - please - take life easy and don't forget me.

Lots of love and friendship,

The cover of the 1981-82 Blue and Gray is designed on ultra-marine blue lexatone material with lettering stamped in silver foil. Lining the inside of the cover are grey endsheets. This year's type style is Korinna Bold in 2 point leaded, with the exception of the title and final pages done in Shelly Allegro Script. Body copy begins with a 12 point character and continues in 10 point, with all captions sized at 8 point. Headline point sizes vary from 18-36 point. Senior class pictures were taken by Seagall Majestic while underclass pictures were taken by Delma Studios. Layouts are mounted on a three column spread bleeding one full block into the gutter. Captions are for the first time done in an unstacked fashion with the introduction and conclusion done in block style to symbolize the connection of the two styles.

The theme of the 55th volume of the Blue and Gray was "The General Connection". We chose this theme to represent the many changes throughout the year and the book. For the first time in four years the Blue and Gray staff was headed by two editors instead of one. Thus, a theme with the word connection was perfect since the basis of working together must be established by a connection. Furthermore, the name Washington-Lee is, after all, a connection of two Virginia generals. That is why this year's theme seemed suitable to describe and capture the spirit of 1981-82.

The year 1981-82 was a year full of conjunctions between triumphs and disasters. Such grave incidents as the assassination attempts on President Reagan and Pope John Paul II, and the successful assassination of President Anwar Sadat marked the year with a note of grief. Yet, events like the Royal Wedding, the upcoming new royal baby, Superbowl XV, and the end of the baseball strike expressed the many triumphs felt throughout the world. One particular disaster, however, hit close to home when Air Florida Flight 90 crashed into the Potomac leaving 78 dead. Still, after the shock wore off, again another triumph would shine through. Truly, in the year of 1981-82 there was a connection between gains and losses throughout the world.

Just as there was a connection between gains and losses in the world, so was there that same connection in school. The year 1981-82 was the year that W-L received its new gym floor, yet awaited the spring science wing renovation. Homecoming fell on a day that added "Spirit" to the night because of Halloween, but on a night when rain poured on our Generals and dampened their efforts. In addition, this year the school saw the return of the AEM seminar which reached its climax with the Renaissance festival. However, the English department also lost a valuable teacher in Mr. Gibbs, who has given many years of dedicated service to W-L. We were all proud of such triumphs as the Marching Generals playing for Press Sec. James Brady's homecoming. Yes, even W-L experienced the connection of triumphs and losses in 1981-82.

The final connection for some W-L students is that of winter into spring. For many, college acceptances had been acknowledged and now finishing high school and enjoying senior slump was all that lay ahead for these seniors. For others, job applications were filled out and interviews were set. As for underclassmen, course request forms for next year were completed and returned to guidance. The most noticeable element of this connection, however, was that contagious spring fever. Yes, W-L was tired of winter and its many snow storms and looked forward to fun in the sun. Such obvious signs as sighing, gazing out windows, and constant sunbathing on the football field proved that W-L students were indeed sun-happy. There was a definite change from the doldrum daze of winter to the slap happy, love inspiring daze of spring — the final 1981-1982 connection.

Someday we'll find it,
the rainbow connection,
the lovers, the dreamers,

Debbie-
Well what can I say. It's all over and I am really glad we got to know each other this year. You are a great person and do much fun things with people. That's why I can't understand why you don't just be with them. I'm really glad you will have the prom to look forward to and get a good education. Hope you have a lot of fun. That's what I'm sure you will do. I'm glad you have other words to go to and see you at your post this summer. Keep in touch and write me. Have a great summer. Love ya always Dawn Grimm

Debbie-
Well what can I say about this year except that it's been great all around. In English class, AEM, especially in crew but most of all John. I'm glad I got to know him and I'm glad he started liking you. Try to forget about you know who and have fun with John, maybe we can all do something together like we did last year. I'm sure you cheered me up when I was down about Pam, you really helped me a lot. I thought wrong about her and I love you both. I'm glad you have each other. I know you will have a good time at the prom. Set me straight about her and I can see a lot of each other this summer, just remember it. I hope

Debbie,

I am so glad I met you this year through crew and through my loving brothers. Even though you are a big Senior and I'm am only a little freshmen, I'm glad you are my friend. I hope you will do like Matt did this year, next year when you off to college (that yes come down to the boathouse and just hum around!) I hope you and Matt don't forget what you all did to me by forcing (!!) me to drink at Scott's party (remember I was sick for a week) Well, you all started me and I'm an acholic just like you, Matt and Jon Well hopefully I will see you next year sometimes (I'm sure I will!!)

Debbie: well you fox you! Weve made it oh, had the chance to say it but you & truth is... I never read the chance to say it. Weve had allot of memories girls, were so wild!!!! well now scene like P.Q.A.Y.H. Thats morse code for "Remember Jamie ... us crazy things we did! so lets do it this way... good-bye w-l Those crazy things we ate ice cream Debbies smiling face how can I... The time we ate the time comes the time Dear person, I'm sorry Mother I'm hello new life. Take care Please forgive me into the serious, and good bye and always be happy. I love you Debbie Outer at your house with Beth and Jon and Matt. Oh and one more thing I'm sorry I'm not good bye and make it snug. Feel we've had some great times together and we'll never forget them. You're a sister and a friend and I love you!! You've got the biggest mouth when it comes to drinking and yelling at guys! Don't ever forget my crush on Jethro and the best and I (smackedy-smack!!) you're the and have sex often. Love you. Take care. Party always the poetries you "Love your sister, "Sweet" "82" are the Deborah Burden BEST!

Debbie,
I thought that you were one of the smartest, most interesting, and definitly the funnest girl I have known this year. Remember the virtues of alcoholism and all the great crew parties. I hope we will have more good times together in the future. Love, Thomas H. Skinner

Chip,
Well it is truly amazing how many people one meets through Crew #1. I'm glad that I met all of them except of course Barney, doof-doof, and T.H. What would we have done without wendy-run. If we didn't go you wouldn't have been able to hear me burp, so be glad we went. We have both had our problems this year (if you know what I mean) and I don't think I could have survived my ordeal without your help. Sorry I couldn't help as much in return. I hope that when you go away to college and become a low-life freshmen, you won't forget the big bad junior rowers you left behind. I know this saying sounds so unfeeling, but I am really glad we became such good friends in this short time

Love always,
Jan Jones
